LATE NEWS

Police Break Up 90-Mile Auto Race

Fulton County patrolmen last night broke up a 90-mile-per-hour automobile race on North Side Drive.

One of the drivers listed as Willie D. Scarbrough, of Marietta, was booked in at Fulton Tower on charges of drunk driving, wreckless driving and speeding 90 miles per hour, Fulton Patrolmen Jack Helms and N. V. Hamilton reported. The other driver escaped.

Helms and Hamilton first noticed the speeding cars on North Side Drive. They gave chase attaining speeds up to 90 miles an hour, they reported, until one of the cars wrecked at Westover Drive.

Negro Patrolmen Threatened by Crowd Here

The police radio broadcast a help call for two Negro patrolmen last night after one of the patrolmen had shot and wounded a Negro prisoner at Bell Street and Auburn Avenue.

Sgt. E. B. Brooks, in charge of the Negro police squad, said several hundred Negroes were milling around Patrolmen Willard Strickland and J. E. McKinney when help arrived.

The two officers had attempted to arrest a Negro man and woman for fighting, Brooks said.

Delinquency Hearing for 'Firebug' Favored

MACOMB, Ill., Sept. 1.—(AP)—State's Atty. Keith Scott said today he will recommend that Womet McNeil, 18, who admitted setting the Macomb "mystery fires," be taken into court as a delinquent minor.

Scott said he thought the action should be taken as a punishment to Womet's destructiveness and as an example to other children who might try to emulate her method of having her own way.

He said:

"I do not plan any criminal prosecution of Womet. She's not outside the law but I don't believe I have a case of arson against her. Apparently there was no criminal intent and no one seeking such punishment."

Soviets Offer To Pay Kasenkina Hospital Bill

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—(AP)—The Russian Consulate has sent a $250 check to Roosevelt Hospital for care of Mrs. Oksana Kasenkina but she has asked that it not be accepted, it was disclosed today.

The disclosure was made by Archie O. Dawson, attorney for the 52-year-old Russian teacher injured when she jumped from a third-floor consulate window to escape the Soviets.

Dawson said the hospital had written him asking whether to accept the check and that when he told Mrs. Kasenkina she cried out:

"No! No! Please don't let them take money from the Soviets for taking care of me."

CAB Orders Florida Airways Flights Ended

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—(UP)—The Civil Aeronautics Board today ordered Florida Airways to cease operations after March 28, because it cannot continue in business without a prohibitively high government subsidy.

The board said it is investigating the need for continued operation of the many other "feeder" airlines all over the country. Like Florida Airways, they fly shuttle routes to points not generally covered by the big lines.

'THIS IS THE END --- I'M RUINED'

Dope Charges Shatter Life---Mitchum

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 1.—(UP)—Movie Hero Robert Mitchum, who was caught smoking marijuana a few hours before he was to have lectured adolescents on juvenile delinquency, said today his arrest had ruined his home, his marriage and his career.

"I've been smoking marijuana for years," Mitchum told the officers who crashed into a blonde starlet's hilltop home at midnight, and found a cozy little "muggles" party underway. "I guess it's all over now, I'm ruined."

After eight hours in jail, his attorneys posted $1,000 bail.

VICKIE EVANS AND LILA LEEDS

Blames Color Line; Aide Egged

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 1.—(AP)—A shower of eggs greeted J. P. Mooney, Progressive Party Campaign Chairman, of Alabama, today after he announced that Henry Wallace had canceled his Birmingham speech because of segregation.

Police had stretched a rope on the west side of the Jefferson County courthouse to separate whites and Negroes.

And upon his arrival here Wallace ran into a group of Negro pickets. They were picketing against him, not for him.

The Negroes, who said they were students at famed Tuskegee Institute, paraded in the courthouse square carrying placards which read: "Go back to Moscow, Wallace," and "Down with the FEPC."

One sign read:

"Wallace, your program has set the Negro back 50 years. We are tired of being a political football." Police Commissioner Eugene (Bull) Connor estimated 3,000 persons had gathered to hear the Progressive Party's candidate for President. Approximately 250 were Negroes, who stood on the north side of the rope.

Mooney took the speaker's platform.

"The Progressive Party of Alabama had hoped to present to you the greatest living American, the man President Roosevelt chose for Secretary of Agriculture and Vice President of our great country," he said. "However, the Progressive Party will not take part in any gathering that violates the Constitution of the United States."

"We believe in free speech and free assembly without police restriction or police intimidation," he said. "After he finished, about a dozen eggs sailed from the crowd toward Mooney. None hit him. Police started to arrest a boy, but he said he didn't know he wasn't supposed to throw eggs. He was not arrested."

Commissioner Connor addressed the crowd before Mooney's appearance.

He asked the crowd to "help me see that he (Wallace) has a respectful and full hearing of whatever he has to say. Birmingham must not injure her good name by being unkind to any visitor within her gates."

Wallace and his party prepared to go to nearby Bessemer, Ala., by radio address.

Earlier, Wallace cancelled a speech at Gadsden, Ala., because police stretched ropes on the courthouse lawn to enforce segregation.

On the other side of the fence, the Con team offered in rebuttal the following arguments: Mayor Hartsfield was seeking to create a "Boss-conference government" that annexation would not be the answer to problems confronting both city and county governments at the present time; that taking over the added territory would be liability instead of an asset to the city; that it is believed to be a

WCON Airs Issues On Big Poser

By HOWELL JONES

Horse sales, horsemen, consolidation, one government and even the suggested annexation of Atlanta's Municipal Airport by the City of Hapeville last night shored up the major question of whether Atlanta should be allowed to annex to the city by legislative action 45 square miles of north-side territory.

The by-play highlighted a heated round-table discussion over Radio Station WCON on the vital city-expansion question, in which two three-man teams, representing both pro and con sides of the issue, time-and-time again interrupted each other to interpose individual arguments.

After the smoke of verbal battle had cleared, at least two definite conclusions could be drawn:

1. The Pro team, composed of Mayor Hartsfield, C. J. Currie, Chairman of the Fulton County Citizens' Committee for Annexation, and Stephens Mitchell, Chairman of the Committee for Greater Atlanta, favor annexation.

2. The Con team, composed of Rex Reeves, City Attorney of Hapeville; Harry Maugans, President of the Buckhead Fifty Club, and Frank Carter, widely known Atlanta attorney, oppose annexation.

To substantiate their argument, members of the Pro team cited figures to show that through annexation of the proposed 45 square miles, citizens of the affected area would realize at least a parity, and sometimes a saving in taxes; they would get improved and expanded services, such as fire and police protection, educational and recreational facilities, etc.; that the City of Atlanta would regain its position of leadership in the South by bringing back into its limits men and women of faith, vision and leadership who now live in the unincorporated area; that Atlanta would hold on to its rank among leading cities of the Nation, and citizens of Atlanta would get a more just return from taxes paid to Fulton County.

The Con team offered in rebuttal the following arguments: Mayor Hartsfield was seeking to create a "Boss-conference government" that annexation would not be the answer to problems confronting both city and county governments at the present time; that taking over the added territory would be liability instead of an asset to the city; that it is believed to be a

4th Labor-Liberal Group Swings To Truman as 5th Readies Pledge

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—(AP)—President Truman won the endorsement for election of his fourth labor-liberal group today—the CIO Political Action Committee.

A fifth—the Liberal Party of New York—arranged to hook its wagon to the Truman star at a night meeting in New York City.

Except for the American Labor Party in New York, which is supporting Henry A. Wallace's Progressive Party candidacy, and some other former New Deal elements backing the former Vice President, the Truman-Barkley ticket now has won the official support of majority strength in liberal groups which used to rally to the Roosevelt banner.

They include the CIO-PAC, whose unanimous support was pledged Mr. Truman during a White House call today; the CIO Executive Board, by a vote of 35 to 12, and a private committee of most AFL union heads, as well as the Americans for Democratic Action, organized in 1947.

The anticipated backing by New York's Liberal Party was regarded by Democratic Party leaders as a probable big offset of ALP defections to the Wallace column. The late President Roosevelt carried New York State by only 316, 591 in 1944. The ALP and Liberal Parties each more than made up his margin. The former cast 329,405 votes and the latter 329,335 for Roosevelt.

A forerunner of what Mr. Truman may elaborate upon in his opening campaign speech next Monday in Detroit was seen in a Labor Day statement made public by the White House.

In it the President again called for repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act, curbing inflation to give workers more for their money, raising the minimum wage from 40 to 75 cents an hour, providing Social Security and health insurance to additional workers, and an enlarged Department of Labor with "adequate" staff and funds.

On the Republican side, Harold E. Stassen went to Albany to confer with Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, the Republican Presidential nominee, regarding Stassen's speech in Detroit next Tuesday. It is intended as a reply to the President's Labor Day address.

The first campaign swing for Gov. Earl Warren, of California, Dewey's running mate, was announced here. Warren will leave Sept. 15 on a 10-day trip through Restoration of rail traffic between Berlin and Western Germany appeared to be under consideration. In this connection the French-licensed newspaper, Der Kurier reported that the "technical difficulties," cited by the Russians as their initial reason for blocking the only rail line from Western Germany to Berlin 70 days ago, had been overcome.

Today's meeting of the four Military Governors lasted three hours. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, the American Military Governor, said they would meet again tomorrow. Asked if any progress had been made, he replied "it is too early to tell."

Meanwhile, he said, working committees would continue their discussions on transport, finance and trade. Their findings were relayed to the Military Governors.

BERLIN, Sept. 1.—(AP)—The four Military Governors of Germany held their second top secret conference today aimed at settling the crisis over Soviet-blockaded Berlin.

The importance of that meeting was emphasized by the presence of generals from all four powers. The working committees followed the pattern of secrecy set by their chiefs. Officials said they were "unauthorized to comment."

Der Kurier quoted a leading official of the German Railway Administration in Magdeburg as saying "the double railway line between Magdeburg and the zonal border is capable of carrying all freight and passenger service."

It added that resumption of interzonal railway traffic was expected if negotiations in Moscow make an easing of the blockade possible.

"In such a case a new interzonal train running from Berlin to Munich, prepared by the Eastern Zone railway authorities, will be put into service immediately," the newspaper said.

Western Allied transport officials were asked about published reports that Western supply trains would start moving through the Soviet zone by Sunday. "Someone's obviously guessing," they said. "We have no information on it."

Railway officials at Helmsdorf denied reports they had received ordering them for reopening of the Helmsdorf-Berlin line.

Finance experts were believed to be trying to work out a single currency system for Berlin, where Soviet and Western-sponsored marks are now in competition. If the Soviet-sponsored mark is made the sole medium of exchange in Berlin "as Western powers want it under four-power control, informants said."

Trade is tied into a solution of the Berlin problem since the Western Allies retaliated against the Soviet blockade by banning all shipment of Ruhr steel, iron and coal to the Soviet Zone. They also embargoed freight in transit across Western Germany to or from the Soviet Zone.

Amendment Printing Plan Poises Poser

By JIM FURNISS

Newspapers publishing some 17 constitutional amendments recently parcelled out by Acting Gov. Thompson may have trouble getting their bills paid, it appeared yesterday.

State Auditor B. E. Thrasher, Jr., said he would attempt to check into the law and follow it when the bills were presented to him for payment.

One section of the law (Acts of 1939 and 1941) states that the Governor can have all amendments published in one newspaper in each Congressional District or divide them between several newspapers in each district.

The most recent information about the amendments, however, was given by Frank Arnold, Thompson's aide, who said all amendments were being sent to about 130 or 140 papers.

The cost of printing the 17 amendments nine times in one paper is about $1,800. Thus if 130 papers print all of them, the bill would be $234,000.

If the 1939 and 1941 Acts are followed, however, all the amendments would be printed in one paper.

Fire Destroys New Home

A $15,000 fire last night destroyed a new home nearing completion at 1911 Lenox Rd., N. E., approximately 300 yards beyond the Atlanta city limits.

Contractor Max Kuniansky, a part-owner of the house which was being built by Lenox Developers, Inc., said the structure was over half way completed. He said it would have been the $24,000 class when completed.

Schuman Struggles In French Web of Woe

PARIS, Sept. 1.—(UP)—Premier Robert Schuman struggled today to form a government which could stabilize French economy, reduce the cost of living, save the franc, appease the Socialists, pacify the De Gaulists and hold off the Communists.

That was a large order, but that was the task cut out for the 52-year-old Popular Republican (MRP) financial expert who won a narrow vote of confidence as Premier in the National Assembly last night.

Schuman had until next Tuesday to line up a Cabinet. He hoped to have a "streamlined" middle-road coalition ready by tomorrow night. But he was working against this gloomy backdrop: 1. The Socialists, although they voted for him as Premier, were lukewarm to taking part in his Government. They caused the downfall of his old Government in July and the downfall of his successor, Andre Marie, last week. Both times Socialist support of the coalition leader was withdrawn because of opposition to economic policies, the pivot on which the current crisis is rotating.

But the hide-and-seek finally ended. The Socialists scheduled a meeting with Schuman at the Foreign Office. It will be followed by a Party caucus. Observers expected the Socialists to join the Government reluctantly but they did not believe the Government would last long unless it came up with some new faces and some new plans for stabilizing the economy.

2. Without the Socialists, Schuman could not form a middle-road Government. That would bring new cries for power from the supporters of Gen. Charles De Gaulle on the extreme right and the Communists on the extreme left.

3. Strikes protesting the rising cost of living were multiplying. Metal workers in Paris scheduled a three-hour demonstration. Full-fledged stoppages nearly halted production at the Creusot Munitions Works and Sochaux Auto Plant.

4. The Communist-led General Confederation of Labor (CGT), raising its demands, asked for a 33 percent increase to $40.50 a month in the minimum wage floor.

5. The Government itself released figures which showed that prices had shot up an average of 10 percent in the past month alone. Beef cost 28 percent more, and potato prices were up 20 percent.

6. Schuman was having trouble persuading his former Finance Minister, Rene Mayer, also a Popular Republican, to come back to that key post. It was reported that Schuman would assume the job himself if he could find no one else.

Red Rites To Delay Big-4 Talks

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, Sept. 1.—(AP)—The death of Andrei A. Zhdanov is almost certain to interrupt at least for a few days the Four-Power Moscow talks on Berlin and Germany.

Both Prime Minister Stalin and Foreign Minister Molotov will be extremely busy during the next few days taking a personal part in the funeral.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—(AP)—The Moscow radio said Prime Minister Stalin took a place tonight in the honor guard over the body of Andrei A. Zhdanov, lying in state in the House of Trade Unions.

the funeral for the deceased member of the 14-man Politburo. Stalin himself probably will be one of the pallbearers when the casket is carried to Red Square for the funeral services Thursday evening.

It is improbable, therefore, that either of these leaders will have time for any Kremlin conferences for at least the next two days and possibly not until next week.

There were indications, however, that the three Western envoys, U. S. Ambassador Walter B. Smith, French Ambassador Yves Chateigneau and Frank Roberts, the British representative, would get together tomorrow to discuss the first reports from the negotiations of the four Military Governors in Berlin.

Meanwhile crowds gathered in Moscow streets waiting their turn in a cold September rain to enter the Hall of Columns where Zhdanov's body lay in state. The crowds began gathering hours before the doors were opened to a procession which was expected to pass the bier all through the night. Zhdanov's death Tuesday was regarded here as the greatest loss to the Communist Party since the death of Sergei Kirov in December, 1934, and observers believed as many as 1,000,000 people were likely to view the remains.

They Couldn't See Dan in His Big Sedan

LAWRENCE, Mass., Sept. 1.—Five-year-old Daniel Elliott took his 3-year-old girl friend, Anna Danahy, for a ride in a big sedan today.

Spectators, who could not see Danny peering over the instrument panel, thought the vehicle unoccupied.

It negotiated two corners in a congested area, hitting only a parked trailer during its 350-yard course before coming to a halt an inch from a garage gasoline pump.

Anna suffered head injuries in the encounter with the trailer, but Danny was unscathed.

Danny told police he opened the car door and turned a switch. He showed them how he stood while driving.

Owner John P. Oakes, who had parked outside his home, estimated damages at $300. The police opined Danny had a spanking coming to him.

New Storm Alerts Ships in Caribbean

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 1—(UP)—A tropical storm moved threateningly across the hurricane belt of the Caribbean Sea today and all shipping and islands in its path were alerted.

Winds at its center were clocked at 30 to 35 miles per hour by observing aircraft but the weather station at San Juan, Puerto Rico, said it probably would grow stronger as it moved in a west-northwesterly direction from near the Virgin Islands. Hurricane force winds are 75 miles per hour and up.

The new storm developed 400 miles southeast of the point where the season's "Hurricane No. 1" was discovered a week ago. No. 1 followed an erratic course which threatened the U. S. mainland from Florida to Virginia before it passed harmlessly out into the Atlantic yesterday.

Miami Weather Bureau forecasters declined to speculate on the hurricane possibilities of the present storm but they watched it closely because it was in the spawning grounds of the vicious winds that have whipped the Southeastern United States in past years.

The storm was about 1,300 miles southeast of Florida and moving at 15 miles per hour. It had passed over St. Lucia in the Windward
Isles that separate the Atlantic Ocean from the Caribbean Sea without reported serious damage.

Ships in its path were directed to proceed with caution and "all interests" were ordered to remain alert for further advisories.

PUBLIC RESPONDS

Rare Blood Provided for Skin Graft

James W. Dillard, of Blue Ridge, six-year-old victim of severe burns in a recent accident, will undergo a series of operations and skin graftings beginning tomorrow or Saturday—thanks to the public response to an appeal for blood.

Little James has a rare blood type, AB with Rh factor negative.
The Red Cross Blood Center did not have any blood of that type on hand, and doctors would not begin the operations until an adequate supply was secured.

Since The Constitution published an account of the need for blood Tuesday morning, seven persons have given AB negative blood at the Blood Center, 81 Walton St., and four others gave the rare type blood at Georgia Baptist Hospital.
Charlie Cooper, Assistant Director of the Center, said many others with AB positive and other types of blood also donated.

"We continue to need all types," he said. "We have enough for James, but there are always more patients who need blood."

Stanford To Head Engineers' Group

Alan Griffith Stanford, Vice President of Robert & Company,
Atlanta architectural and engineering firm, has been named
President of the National Society of Professional Engineers. When he takes office in January, 1949, Stanford will become the first
Southerner to hold this position.

Stanford is a veteran of 29 years' service with Robert & Company.
He is a graduate of Clemson College. He served in the Signal Corps during World War I and joined the Atlanta firm after leaving the service. He became Vice President in 1945.

Government work on Guam, projects of the Georgia Ports Authority and a superhighway through Atlanta are now under Stanford's direction.

He is a charter member of a number of engineering societies.
His residence is at 668 Cresthill
Ave., N. E.

A&P Announces Retirement Plan

A retirement plan for employees of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company was announced in a letter yesterday to more than 110,000 employees of the Company
by John A. Hartford, President.

All full-time employees who have completed more than five years of service automatically become members of the plan, all costs of which will be borne by the Company.

Hartford said the retirement plan was in line with the Company's policy of sharing with its employees and customers savings brought about by efficiencies in the field of food distribution. It was the first in that field to adopt a five-day work week for food store employees, insurance and other benefits.

Peters Wrote of Overthrow, Says Budenz

NEW YORK, Sept. 1—(AP)—
Louis Budenz testified today that the mysterious J. Peters was a high Communist functionary who gave directions to the National Committee, ruling body of the Communist Party.

Budenz, former Communist Party official now on the faculty at Fordham University, testified at a deportation hearing for Peters.

He said that Peters once told him he was engaged in "getting information in Washington and Hollywood" for the Party.

Asked if he were sure he recognized Peters, Budenz replied:
"I know him well. I could not be mistaken."

Budenz also testified that in 1936 Peters said he was the author of a pamphlet entitled "The Communist Party, a Manual of Organization."

The pamphlet, entered into the evidence, contained the statement:

"I pledge myself to remain at all times a vigilant and firm defender of the Leninist line of the Party, the only line that insures the triumph of the Soviet power in the United States."

Several pamphlets put into the evidence taught that the Communist Party is a fifth column of Soviet Russia committed to the shattering of the U. S. Government by violence, Budenz said.

Budenz said Peters informed him that he (Budenz) did not know anything about "the con-spiratorial apparatus, the most important part of the Party." Peters also said, Budenz testified, that "the Communist Party is like a submerged submarine and I could see only the periscope."

Reporter Visits
A Beauty Shop

By BILL BORING

The sign on the beauty shop window said, "A Beautiful Coiffure for Happy School Days," and surrounding the sign were pictures of pretty little girls with all sorts of fancy hair-dos.

Sensing a trend—or could this be another of my blind spots on the stage of time?—I decided this was worth looking into, and so entered the shop. A Miss Harriett Suggs greeted me and asked if she could help me.

"I am interested in children's coiffures," I said.

"What age child?" she asked.

I sort of fumbled at the answer, causing her to explain that her junior customers range in ages of from 18 months to 18 years. I told her I had in mind someone about midway between the two extremes she mentioned, and then she wanted to know if I had any particular style in mind—a "blithe of spirit," perhaps; a "jaunty junior," a "swing wave shortie?"

And so I learned about youngsters in the beauty shops from Miss Suggs.

The kids not only are getting permanents before they get out of diapers, but they're going in for clean-up facials, manicures, and eyebrow archings.

"The children love it," declared Miss Suggs. "It does something to their ego. I know, because I was a straight, stringy-haired kid myself."

Miss Suggs also said that mothers report that a manicure instills in the child a sense and desire for cleanliness; that it also is the best thing to keep them from biting their nails.

And a facial clean-up, with all that soft cream and those warm towels, beats the washrag all hollow, the beauty operators quote the children as saying.

QUIZ CORNER: Georgia produces more frying-sized chickens for the commercial market than any other State in the nation. True or false?

DJA HAPPEN TO SEE?—A gray-haired woman, looking to be grandma age, riding a motor scooter down Stewart Avenue?

ATLANTA VIGNETTE: A light on the switchboard at Davison's blinked red, indicating an incoming call. The operator pushed in a plug. "Davison's," she answered. "Hello, a childlike voice replied, 'can I speak to your window man, please?' The operator put the call on the phone of Dudley Pope, the display department head. He heard her story: 'Please, sir,' the girl said, 'will you put a doll and a bike in your window on Friday before Christmas? I'm bringing my mama and papa by on the day and want to show them what I want Santa to bring me.'

TODAY'S ORCHID: To Miss Mary Rivers for her 28 years of loving care for the children of the Jacob Elsas Nursery at Fulton Bag and Cotton Mills. She is the director of the nursery.

FYI: Bill Shannon, former Atlanta radio announcer, is winning national fame for a Kid Radio program over a station in Abilene, Texas, where he is now located. The program is designed to keep the youngsters indoors during the hot weather when polo appears most prevalent. The program provides indoor entertainment each day between 2 and 5 p. m., during which the children are encouraged to rest or listen while lying in bed. A membership card is given to each child who pledges to rest during the heat of the day. The card will admit the member to a giant entertainment for children once cool weather comes. Shannon's mother, Mrs. Adele Shannon, lives here at 642 Lawton St. Quiz Corner statement is false. Georgia is third-ranking frying-sized chicken producer. Maryland and Delaware out-produce her. Georgia still produces enough chickens a year, however, to give every man, woman and child in the U. S. a choice piece of chicken. Ernest Vandiver, Jr., Herman Tamagge's campaign manager, is expecting to become a father any day now.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1—(AP)—Two Democratic Senators got clearance today for a look behind the Soviet iron curtain on an inspection trip through Europe.

The two, Sens. Lucas, of Illinois, and Fulbright, of Arkansas, will take off with a group of lawmakers in President Truman's plane at noon (EST) tomorrow for Rome. There they will attend sessions of the Interparliamentary Union, an international organization of lawmakers.

Flying with them will be Sen. Barkley, of Kentucky, the Democratic Vice Presidential nominee; Sen. Hatch, Democrat, New Mexico; Reps. John J. Rooney, Democrat, New York, and Henry O. Talle, Republican, Ohio; Dr. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Secretary of the American group, and Victor Purse, State Department representative.

The move was made on recommendation of Col. M. E. Cox, Engineer-Director of the Bond Commission, and L. R. Epperson, Engineer-Director of Fulton County Public Works.

The connecting link will run from the North-South Expressway, near Williams Street in a westerly direction out Jones Avenue to the West by-pass.

The Bond Commission allotted $300,000 for surveys, plans and construction of the link and $450,000 for the acquisition of the right of way.

PERRY, Sept. 1.—(P)—Stockholders of the Macon Production Credit Association have re-elected W. H. Felton, Jr., and T. H. Blackwell directors for three-year terms. H. L. ANNEXATION political maneuver designed to lull unaffected sections of the county into a temporary feeling of security, and it would be against the fundamental principles of democratic government."

Currie said that according to the "Millican Plan" for annexation, the affected area would be joined to the City as of Jan. 1, following action by the Legislature.

He said also that citizens of the area, if annexed, would be allowed to vote in the City Primary in 1949 in which the Mayor will be elected.

Mayor Hartsfield added that citizens of the area would be allowed to vote for their own three councilmen, and members of the school board from their section at the same time.

At one point, when a member of the anti-annexation team had referred to the "Four Horsemen" as Mayor Hartsfield's team, Currie came out of his chair and demanded that the Con group "get to the truth."

"I defy Mr. Carter or any other member of his team to give one constructive reason why they call it the Mayor's team," Currie said. The question prompted Moderator McGill to ask the Mayor directly: "Did you select the team, and are you sponsoring the candidates?"

Hartsfield answered no. The Mayor explained that Sen. Everett Millican, of Fulton County, and Rep. Muggsy Smith both had been running long before the question of annexation was brought forward. He said also that the other two candidates for the State Legislature included in the "Four Horsemen" also were "running of their own accord."

In one commentary, Pro-Annexationist Mitchell told of a mythical case where "Mr. Atlanta" found himself paying a greater share of taxes than a friend who lived outside the city, but received a smaller share of benefits.

After going through a hypothetical discussion in which "Mr. Atlanta" learned that: (1) "For every dollar he put into County taxes, he got nothing back"; (2) "For every dollar a man outside the City put into County taxes he got $6.66 worth of service"; and (3) "He and others of his kind in the city paid 85 percent of County taxes."

Mitchell's "Mr. Atlanta" then decided that it was all right for a few millionaires to move out of town and live on his taxes—that was a small burden; there were too many little people like himself moving out of the city and expecting to be supported by city people free of taxes; and that while he had a proper respect for his betters, he could not support "too many of them."

While categorically opposed to annexation, members of the Con team were unanimous in their approval of a one-government or consolidation plan to achieve the same purpose asked by the annexationists.

During the round-table discussion—which at one time became so heated Moderators Ralph McGill, Editor of The Constitution, and Jack Tarver, Associate Editor of The Constitution, were forced to call for some degree of "order"—several important phases of the question were discussed.

In answer to a question by Moderator Tarver regarding what representation residents of the north side area would be allotted if it should be annexed, Currie stated the area would get councilmen from each of three wards which would be created.

Currie also defined the area proposed for annexation as "starting at the present city limits on Marietta Street and running to the Chattahoochee River, then along the river to Power's Ferry Bridge, thence straight across to the DeKalb County line and down the

INTERESTING CONVERSATION

HOLLAND, Ia., Sept. 1.—(P)—Mrs. Claus Primus and Mrs. Heiko Tiggelaar are still laughing over their trip to the Iowa State Fair in Des Moines.

Coming out of an exhibition hall, the two ladies chatted and drifted along with the large crowd.

Before they realized it, they were on the street outside the fairgrounds.

They had to pay to get back inside.

DeKalb boundary to the present city limits there."

In a facetious vein, one member of the Pro team brought the discussion of horse riding in North Fulton Park in answer to a question as to what citizens of Atlanta realized from tax monies paid to the county. He suggested that possibly Atlantans could enjoy the sport as a return on their taxes.

Hapeville's young Attorney Reeves, suggested—and demanded to know why it would not be legitimate—that his city vote to annex "Atlanta's airport without a vote of Atlanta citizens. Reeves said: "It seems to me that it would be just as fair for Atlanta to annex the north side area without a vote by its citizens."

Hartsfield replied that Hapeville could not annex the airport because Atlantans had approved $3,000,000 in bonds for improvement of the property.

Not to be outdone, Reeves interrupted the Atlanta Mayor, telling Hartsfield: "You have given the radio audience glittering generalities about the benefit of annexation, now tell me why Hapeville could not take in the airport if it wanted to."

Before Hartsfield had a chance to speak his teammate, Currie, answered the question by telling Reeves, "If Hapeville would utilize the same method in annexing the airport as we plan for the north side—leaving the question to the entire County—it would be legitimate."

Truck Strikers In N. Y. Grant 'Essentials' Flow

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—(INS)—Striking truck drivers in the nation's greatest city agreed late today to permit the unhampered flow of essential supplies during their walkout which started this morning.

The announcement was made by Mayor William O'Dwyer after a series of City Hall conferences. Hope for quick end of the strike faded when the emergency meetings in City Hall failed to produce a quick settlement.

The essential supplies include such things as food, medicine and newsprint.

Stevenson Still Ahead

DALLAS, Texas, Sept. 1.—(P)—Ex-Gov. Coke Stevenson tonight still held a slim majority in Texas' Democratic runoff race for the United States Senate. He was ahead of United States Rep. Lyndon B. Johnson by 362 votes on the basis of unofficial returns of the Texas Election Bureau. The race is so close the winner will not be known until the official canvass of votes Sept. 13.

WIFE TO SUE?

Shuberts' Twelve-Year Union Told

RENO, Nev., Sept. 1—(UP)—The 12-year secret marriage of New York Producer Lee Shubert, known as the "perennial bachelor of Broadway," to a very attractive blonde actress was disclosed here tonight.

The marriage was confirmed by Mrs. Shubert's New York attorney, who would identify himself only as "Mr. Kline." Kline confirmed that Mrs. Shubert, the former Marcella Swanson, would file for a Reno divorce on Friday.

Mrs. Shubert's Reno attorney, Lloyd Smith, was not available, but Kline said she probably would file on the usual Reno grounds of extreme cruelty.

Reached at a downtown hotel, where she has been living quietly for the past 5½ weeks, Mrs. Shubert declined to discuss her marriage to Shubert.

"You had better talk to Mr. Kline," she said.

Kline said "Shubert and Marcella were married in Berlin about 12 years ago."

Georgia Politics Young Atlantan's Magazine Theme

An analysis of Georgia politics by a brilliant young Atlanta writer appears in the September issue of Harper's Magazine, which goes on sale on newsstands today.

Calvin Kytie, 28, former reporter for The Atlanta Constitution who will join the journalism faculty of Emory University this fall, is the author of an article which poses the question, "A Long, Dark Night for Georgia?"

Kytie anticipates the election of Herman Talmadge as the beginning of "a political twilight" over Georgia and takes up the prospects of the formation of an Independent Democratic Party in Georgia, quoting from editorials of Constitution Editor Ralph McGill.

The Harper's story is one of the first articles Kytie has written for a national magazine, although he was the winner of a Rosenwald Foundation fellowship and is writing a book on Georgia politics. He served as public relations man for the National Youth Administration area office here following his graduation from Emory in 1941 and spent three years in the Army in the South Pacific. He has edited an Army publication, "Map Talk." He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Perdue Kytie and is the husband of the former Miss Elizabeth Larissey, also a magazine writer. They live in Dunwoody.

ONLY PLAYING

Admits Try To Rob Hotel

Millard C. Thompson, 26-year-old former bellboy, walked into police headquarters yesterday and surrendered on what detectives said was one of the most unusual attempted robbery cases on record.

At about 4:30 a. m. Tuesday Dets. J. L. Mosley and O. T. Jones reported Thompson entered the Ansley Hotel and walked around the counter to Clerk J. M. Bosworth.

"You know what this is," Thompson was quoted as saying.

"It looks like a pistol," Bosworth replied.

"I am going to hold you up," Thompson said.

As the clerk explained the hotel funds were locked up, Thompson laid down the gun and walked out.

Mosley and Jones said the "pistol" turned out to be an air gun, which resembled a German make automatic pistol.

When he surrendered yesterday, Thompson told detectives he was "only playing."

He was booked on charges of suspicion of robbery.

Home Rule Supported By Thompson

By M. L. ST. JOHN

DAWSON, Sept. 1.—(AP)—The

Thompson today charged that former House Speaker Roy Harris, advisor to gubernatorial candidate Herman Talmadge, has for years prevented passage of home rule legislation in order to control legislators' votes on major issues. Commending an Atlanta Constitution editorial calling for passage of real home rule legislation, Thompson reiterated a pledge made at his opening speech at Millen to seek passage of legislation giving cities and counties almost complete authority over purely local matters. Thompson charged that Harris, although not a member of the 1947 Legislature, led this General Assembly around by the nose, and that the ex-speaker deliberately sabotaged hundreds of local bills.

The Supreme Court nullified bills which failed to include a copy of advertising with the enrolled and engrossed copy.

PESS SUPPORT CLAIMED

Nearly 150 daily and weekly newspapers have endorsed Thompson for Governor, the candidate told a crowd.

"They are endorsing me for two reasons," Thompson claimed. "First, because of my record in office, second, because of the dastardly sort of campaign my opponent has resorted to in an effort to try to save his dying campaign."

Thompson offered to pay for radio time for Talmadge to repeat the Talmadge opening speech which, Thompson said, attempted to offer an affirmative program and make Thompson's record the campaign issue.

The Acting Governor said Talmadge has forgotten this speech and "is hollering 'Nigger, Nigger, Nigger' in an effort to get votes through racial prejudice." Thompson said he would close his own campaign with a repetition of the speech he opened with at Millen.

HELP ACKNOWLEDGED

Thompson expressed appreciation for support from an unexpected source, the Macon Telegraph, which today editorially endorsed him. Dr. Steve Kenyon, former President of the Georgia Medical Association, who introduced Thompson, praised his record with Battey Hospital and improvement of health facilities.

Rufus Jennings was master of ceremonies.

A motorcade of women leaders, led by Mrs. Ed Young, met the Acting Governor's party at Brownwood and led it into Dawson.

Macon Woman Reports

KKK Stickers on Door

MACON, Sept. 1.—(AP)—A Macon white woman who works at a Negro eating establishment, reported to City Detectives today that she found several Ku Klux Klan stickers plastered on her front door when she started to work today.

Detectives listed the woman said she works at the Mexico only as a "Mrs. Thornton." They Way, Negro eating establishment on Fifth Street.

Detectives J. D. Newman and L. B. McCallum, who investigated, removed two of the stickers and took them to headquarters. They declined comment on whether they considered the incident a warning to the woman.

Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook said he had not yet been asked to rule on the Governor's legal right to have all the proposed amendments printed in more than 10 papers. He declined comment, saying he could not give an opinion on the matter except on written request from the proper State official.

Meanwhile, it also appeared that the 1949 Legislature would have to pass a new appropriations bill if legislators hope to get paid in the event all amendments appear in 140 different papers.

The present appropriation for the Legislature is $250,000. The cost of the advertising in 140 papers is charged up as a legislative expense, and would total $252,000—overdrawing the legislative account by $2,000.

Efforts to locate Phil Landrum, Executive Secretary to Acting Gov. Thompson, were unavailing. Thompson said Monday Landrum was handling details of sending out the amendments.

Savannah Paper Slates Support For Talmadge

By ALBERT RILEY

Constitution Staff Writer

WAYCROSS, Sept. 1.—Herman

Talmadge made a bid for the farm and labor support in this railroad and naval stores center today.

He pledged: (1) To protect Georgia's timber resources from forest fires and (2) to make workmen's compensation laws more effective.

"I want to work for the welfare and co-operation of management and labor," he said, "because capital cannot produce without labor and I want to see them working together for a higher standard of living."

It was Talmadge's first deviation from his speeches of the past week as he addressed a cheering throng on the Ware County courthouse lawn.

He made one other reference of local application while assailing Acting Gov. Thompson's administration for trading roads for votes.

In this instance Talmadge said, "They recently widened U.S. Highway No. 1 down here but just the other day a truck hit a hole on it and had a wreck and here is a piece of the asphalt from the highway."

He held up a block of paving asphalt, broke it in two and said: "That's some of Ed Rivers' asphalt here."

At Adel earlier in the day Talmadge "lashed out heavily" at Thompson vetoing the white primary bill last year and bore down heavily on civil rights, the FEPC, and anti-segregation legislation as being the main issues of the gubernatorial campaign.

He repeated charges that Thompson neglected rural hospitals and Battey Hospital to buy Jekyll Island and pledged to work for increased educational and veterans' benefits, better pay for school bus drivers and a constitutional highway board.

Both here and at Adel he was preceded by Rep. Robert Elliott, of Columbus, who assailed the war records of Thompson and former Govs. Rivers and Arnall.

As a 77-car motorcade rolled in from Glynn County and a larger one from Telfair County Talmadge was introduced here by Jerome Crowley, Waycross attorney. Q. L. Garrett, another attorney, was master of ceremonies and on the platform were Betty Cunneels grabbed onto a safety rope as he fell and fellow workers managed to haul him to safety. Little and Gower said. He was admitted to Grady Hospital with a broken left leg and other injuries.

The latter-day Dewey reported they saw only three safety ropes in the quarry.

Another prisoner was slightly injured earlier in the day when a cave-in occurred on another ledge. He was listed as Robert Gilleland, Negro, who was treated for a slight back injury. The sliding dirt and rock was not sufficient to knock him from the ledge.

Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook said he had not yet been asked to rule on the Governor's legal right to have all the proposed amendments printed in more than 10 papers. He declined comment, saying he could not give an opinion on the matter except on written request from the proper State official.

Meanwhile, it also appeared that the 1949 Legislature would have to pass a new appropriations bill if legislators hope to get paid in the event all amendments appear in 140 different papers.

The present appropriation for the Legislature is $250,000. The cost of the advertising in 140 papers is charged up as a legislative expense, and would total $252,000—overdrawing the legislative account by $2,000.

Efforts to locate Phil Landrum, Executive Secretary to Acting Gov. Thompson, were unavailing. Thompson said Monday Landrum was handling details of sending out the amendments.

Absentee Ballot Denied Toombs County Voters

By JIM FURNISS

Constitution Staff Writer

ALL absent voters of Toombs County are being denied the right to vote by absentee ballot, The Constitution learned on checking into several complaints yesterday.

Budd Partain, Toombs County Tax Collector, said provisions to give persons away from home absentee ballots "never have been put into operation."

He said the Board of Registrars had agreed not to give out the ballots, even though they had been applied for before last Saturday, the legal deadline.

Partain said he had received about a half-dozen requests for ballots. Another 25 or so were reported to have been requested from the County Ordinary.

Inquiries at an office showed that the regular ballot had been published but not the absentee ballots.

The Board of Registrars consists of D. L. Gray, D. D. Moore and T. H. Anderson. None could be located immediately for comment.

Sources here said the County did handle absentee ballots under the Soldier Vote Law. Efforts to institute the absentee ballot under the regular election laws, however, had been unavailing, it was reported.

In the 1946 election, the late Eugene Talmadge carried the county with 2,265 votes, trailed by James Carmichael with 976, E. D. Rivers with 403 and Hoke O'Kelly with 27.

Reminded of how lucky he was to be working in such pleasant surroundings, Ward shivered and disclosed he felt doubly fortunate since he recalls vividly the days when he was a member of Adm. Richard E. Byrd's expedition to the South Pole.

Ward said he had received about a half-dozen requests for ballots. Another 25 or so were reported to have been requested from the County Ordinary.

Serves Self At Cash Drawer

Only a few moments after a Negro man walked into the Gay Service Station, 196 Spring St., N. W., yesterday and asked for a cold drink, employees told police, $200 was found missing from the cash register.

Station Manager P. C. Morris told Patrolmen F. A. Turner and G. S. Robertson he was busy waiting on a customer when the Negro walked into the station. When he came inside, Morris related, the Negro asked for a soft drink and then walked out.

AID FOR WORLD YOUTH FUND—George Bishop, left, of the Marietta Hi-Y Club, and Lavinia Whatley, of the Covington Tri-Hi-Y Club, present a giant-sized check for $6,903.69 to Thomas P. Pearman, Southern Region Director of the World Youth Fund of the Young Men's Christian Association. The check represents contributions from Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y members all over Georgia for YMCA work with boys and girls of war-torn countries. Lavinia and George recently were named World Youth Fund Queen and King of Georgia for their work in helping to raise the funds.

The Police Blotter

TOO MUCH FINERY—A nine-year-old Negro boy strutting along Forrest Avenue yesterday in brand new cowboy boots, new blue jean overall trousers and hat attracted the attention of police. At headquarters he admitted taking $6 from a gift shop on Ponce de Leon Avenue to purchase the outfit. Officers marked the flashy clothes "hold for evidence" and turned the youth over to juvenile authorities.

LOOKING AHEAD—Turnkey D. I. King has an eye for the future even though cold weather still is many weeks away. In a report to Police Chief Herbert Jenkins yesterday, King pointed out that most windows on the fourth floor of City Jail have broken panes and that several are stuck in the frames. The Chief immediately set about having the "bull pen" section of the jail made comfortable for winter.

GOT HIS MAN—Fulton Motorcycle Officer Dick Jones got his man although his motorcycle headlight was damaged and his flashlight went out. Jones became suspicious of an auto parked in the rear of 685 Argonne Ave., N. E., and went to investigate. He found 16 gallons of corn liquor near the car and arrested Allen Thurmond, Negro, of 229 Pine St., N. E., after a heated foot race. City Det. O. T. Jones, who took over the investigation, booked Thurmond for suspicion of whiskey.

ASKS HUNTER OUSTER—Mrs. Milton W. Davis, who said she represented the West End American Legion Post, appeared before the Fulton County Commission yesterday to demand the ouster of Floyd Hunter as Chairman of the County Parks and Recreation Commission. "He represents Henry Wallace," she said, "and has had a finger in the spending of our bond money. We have no need for that kind down here." Commissioner J. Glover Hailey explained Hunter merely held his place on a County advisory board by virtue of being director of the Atlanta Planning Council, from which post he has been dismissed because of his Wallace activities. Hailey said Hunter would be automatically replaced on the Parks and Recreation Commission.

RESIGNATIONS—The Commission accepted with regrets the resignations of Eugene O'Brien from the Planning Commission and C. Leake Fain, Jr., from the Bond Commission. Commissioner Charlie Brown described O'Brien as the father of Fulton County zoning and lauded his 10 years' faithful service as a member of the Planning Commission. S. R. Young, of College Park, President of the Atlanta and West Point Railroad, was unanimously elected to succeed O'Brien. Roy Warren, insurance executive, was elected to the Civil Service Board to succeed J. Allen Couch.

Awards will be made to CAP members who flew on active duty missions with the Coastal Patrol during the early part of World War II. These pilots and observers were part of a voluntary organization on duty with the War Department and spotted submarines in offshore waters along the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts. Atlantian Tom Daniel, Jr., commanded the Georgia coastal Maj. Gen. L. V. Beau unit at Brunswick, and Georgians participating hold an annual reunion at the King and Prince Hotel.

Using every type of light private aircraft, Coastal Patrol personnel chalked up more than 24,000,000 overwater miles between March, 1942, and August, 1945, when the Air Force and Navy relieved them. CAP patrols sighted and reported 173 Nazi submarines, dropping depth charges and demolition bombs against 57 and actually sinking two.

WHY HARTSFIELD FEARS ONE-GOVERNMENT

One-Government is the simple way of running a government.

No double set of officials (county and city), no double taxation, no double talk.

One-Government is what Atlanta needs to lift herself out of the present antiquated, inefficient, and costly system of government. One-Government will save Atlanta taxpayers at least $3,000,000 per year. But such a radical change might mean the loss of the Mayor's job, and you know he really puts himself first and Atlanta second.

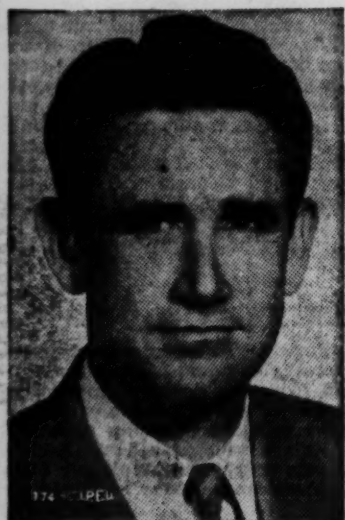

Luther Alverson is in favor of One-Government. When he is elected to the Legislature, he will take the first step toward a new day for Atlanta by introducing the necessary legislation.

Therefore, no matter how much Mayor Hartsfield is afraid of One-Government and Luther Alverson, we will elect Alverson.

SIX DAYS Until September Eighth

With less than a week remaining before the State Primary, Georgians, most of whom have decided upon a gubernatorial candidate, are turning to consideration of the other officers to be chosen.

The two highest courts in the State are the scene of contests and we urge that every citizen look carefully at the records of those who are offering.

There is justification for argument over this State's policy of electing jurists. Many contend that the type of person needed on the bench is reluctant to enter into a contest for office. Certainly there is reason to doubt that we need successful politicians rather than able arbiters rendering our legal decisions.

But since Georgia does have the system of electing judges, it most undeniably behooves the conscientious voter to look beyond the platform appeal of the candidates involved, to refuse to cast their ballot for this or that candidate merely because he reportedly is aligned with this or that political faction.

More Steel Coming Up?

Steel continues to be the only major commodity in short supply. That is a basic reason for the continued scarcity of automobiles and other items dependent upon steel.

Steel companies this year are spending about a half-billion dollars for expansion, but even that will not be sufficient for supply demand at the current rate. Steel production is expensive and a tremendous investment is required to expand mill facilities or build new ones.

But the industry may have found a better way. Republic Steel and Babcock-Wilcox have announced a new continuous casting method that eliminates four expensive steps in steelmaking and much heavy, costly equipment. The patents on this process will be made available to the rest of the industry. It is expected to make possible the erection of steel plants in smaller cities and holds great promise for extending the industry into many cities of the South and West.

Republic also has developed a pressurized furnace which speeds the chemical process of smelting by 50 percent. And Bethlehem Steel has been experimenting with use of oxygen in furnaces, a process which it is said will increase over-all production by 10 percent.

These new techniques give hope for more steel at lower prices. They may mean, too, a decentralization of the nation's heaviest industry which, because of its very nature and heavy investment, in the past has confined operations to a few locations.

The Crisis in France

Too many political parties, wielding influence out of all proportion to their membership, have brought about a desperate situation in France.

In fact, the full seriousness of the French plight now is being underscored with talk of the need of a "strong man" to take over and operate the country under a virtual dictatorship.

A dictatorship is the resort of weak democracies. And in the French case the weakness may be directly attributed to the political system which gives undue power to minorities. Each government formed must be a coalition. And when one leg of the coalition table falls the entire government topples.

De Gaulle has been biding his time. He has said the failure of the Schuman Government in July followed a month

The courts are the bulwark of our democracy.

The judiciary is the deciding factor when, as we have on occasion seen in Georgia, the legislative and executive branches of our government fall into disagreement.

Two justices are to be chosen on Sept. 8 for both the Court of Appeals and the Supreme Court of the State of Georgia. Judge Jule Felton of the Court of Appeals and Justice William Atkinson of the Supreme Court are without opposition. But there is a contest for the other position on both courts.

It is our hope that the vast majority of Georgians will make their own independent investigations of the merits of those offering for the posts so that these two most important courts will be strengthened rather than weakened, so that men worthy of the robes will be elected to wear them.

Only six days remain before election. Prepare now to cast an intelligent ballot.

able to the rest of the industry. It is expected to make possible the erection of steel plants in smaller cities and holds great promise for extending the industry into many cities of the South and West.

later by the failure of the Marie Government was the proper signal for a new election. There is a good chance right now that de Gaulle would win such an election. And his chance may come if Schuman fails again.

Whatever his faults, de Gaulle would give stability to the government and he would bring more power to the executive branch, the lack of which is another failing of the French system. The arbitrary methods de Gaulle would use would be justified, of course, in the name of emergency. It is ever thus when democratic rule abdicates in favor of dictatorship.

France's multiplicity of political parties, its system of granting sweeping power to small minorities and the general unwillingness to sacrifice for the common good should be a lesson to Americans.

Where Does All the Defense Money Go?

WASHINGTON—One Government row to be thankful for, is the big row that seems to be in the making about defense investment. The question of how much defense spending will pay next year's bills for the Army, Navy and Air Force. This question has already been directly raised by the Joint Research and Development Board report to Ferdinand Eberstadt, who is investigating the defense establishment for the Hoover Commission on Government Reorganization. The JRDB, headed by the able Dr. Vannevar Bush, has the responsibility of co-ordinating all research and development projects for the three services. The sum of the report to Eberstadt was that the JRDB was solving the minor problems, but being defeated on the major problems, in this vital field. The importance of this is best brought out by illustrations.

First, the accuracy of aerial bombardment has assumed a crucial new significance that very few people have noticed. When thousands of tons of bombs were to be dropped, as in the last war, the very wide margin of bombing error that prevailed in the last war was not especially damaging. But the whole American strategic advantage now rests upon the new absolute weapons, and especially the atomic bomb.

Not thousands of tons, but only one or two bombs, are now to be dropped on each target. The greatest accuracy is essential. If war comes, it will be difficult to attain even the unsatisfactory last war-level of accuracy, in view of the absence of maps of the Soviet Union sufficiently dependable to be used in radar-bombing. The JRDB believes that improvement in bombing accuracy should have the highest priority in research investment. But the Air Forces are making what is regarded as a rather limited effort along this line.

Second, the menace of the new German Type 21, long-range, high-speed, radar-proof submarine, has by now been repeatedly emphasized. According to naval intelligence, the Red fleet includes 250 of these craft, against which no satisfactory protection has yet been devised. So long as there is no protection against the Type 21 submarine, the Navy cannot do its job of holding control of the seas. Yet again, the concentration of effort on devising effective anti-submarine equipment and tactics is at present regarded as inadequate.

Third, the scientists and research experts of the JRDB have not yet been permitted to make a serious critique of the Navy's controversial 60,000-ton carrier. The proposed carrier and its huge flotilla of escorts, representing in all a total investment that may run as high as $1,000,000,000, must operate fairly close to the enemy's shores. Only here can the carrier carry out its mission, of launching air attacks on the enemy's inland centers. But in these waters, the carrier and its escorting flotilla will be especially vulnerable to submarine attack.

For these reasons, none but the Navy planners favor the carrier. On the other hand, the Newport meeting of the Joint Chiefs has now settled the bitter inter-service dispute over roles and missions. There is a new atmosphere of amiability. And the other service chiefs are quite likely to approve the Navy's carrier, just to be pleasant about it.

Critically significant as all these matters are, moreover, they are not truly central. The heart of the whole problem of wise defense expenditure lies in the extraordinary disparity between the cost of defense in America and elsewhere. The daily tonnage of supplies consumed by an American combat division was estimated, in wartime, to be as much as five times greater than the tonnage required by a German division. The disparity is still greater when American and Russian divisions are compared.

Part of this difference is of course attributable to the fact that American divisions do not live off the country, and to the superior mobility insisted on by American planners. Yet even the most loyal American officers admit that in comparison to other defense establishments, ours is run on luxury lines. The JRDB has attempted to tackle this problem by establishing a special group to study logistics, but has again been frustrated.

All these facts at least establish that a problem exists. But the JRDB's role is simply that of the only body now capable of looking at the services through expert, though civilian eyes. What is really wanted, is strong executive leadership, by the President himself, to insure we get the best defense and the most defense for our money.

I Sat Back And Reflected--

I sat back from reading a very excellent article on "The Peasant—Key to the Balkans," in the New York Times Magazine and, it being late in the evening, and I alone in the office, I gave way to reflection.

It was easy—for a reason to come later—to make the transition from the Balkans to the South.

We currently are agitated by the controversy of civil rights. We are being asked to make a very costly, illogical and harmful decision—namely, to appear before the nation, and the world, as a region which is opposed to all civil rights, not merely to Mr. Harry Truman's proposals.

And, as we gratefully accept the Federal money for school lunches for highways, for State public health departments, for aid in building rural hospitals and for payments of pensions to our aged, blind and crippled; as we earnestly seek more Federal aid for the needs of humanity which most closely touch us—education, the spastic and cerebral palsy victims among children, and so on; we prayerfully invoke the FBI to hurry across our borders and assist us in hunting down the kidnapers of a child dear to us—as we do all these things, we cannot in honesty stand and say that what we are fighting for is the purity of States' rights. That is a claim so full of holes that a person cannot think twice and make it.

Rights I am willing to say that the Constitution of the United States reserve certain rights to the States. I am of the opinion the proposed anti-lynching legislation is unconstitutional. The Republican committee which last worked on it thought so too, by watering it down until it was meaningless. I believe, too, the anti-poll tax law is unconstitutional and also the FEPC. I know that if legislation were to be set up to prevent the hiring of certain persons it would be unconstitutional. And so, I believe, is any legislation which makes mandatory the hiring of certain persons by individuals or corporations. Federal employment is a different field, as we long have seen.

But, I am not willing to say that I am against any effort to bring to the people of the South, or any other region, a full share of human, or civil rights. This does not mean that I believe in the federalized FEPC. I emphatically do not, however, right the objective may be. It does mean that I am on the side of human rights and believe it the obligation of the South to be and to positively assert itself. I do not believe it can be legislated. But, we Southerners cannot stand before the nation with the mask of hypocrisy now being worn by the Dixiecrats, and say, with great piety, "We are sorry, there is nothing we can do about admitted wrongs because we stand for States' rights."

We must not make the error of confusing Truman with Truth. Or with right or wrong. He is an incident. We are up against principles.

Segregation It has been said, by Thomas Wolfe, I think, that the way to discover one's country, and one's love for it and need of it, was to leave it.

I think that is true. But, one also picks up in travel certain facts which are applicable to one's own country and one's own region.

The articles in the Times Magazine, "The Peasant—the Key to the Balkans," is important to this thesis.

It was based on the fact that the Balkan Slavs are so bound, mentally and culturally, by long-established traditions and customs, that they do not take well to the imposition of Soviet collective measures. "As a landowner he has traditions that his new Communist rulers are bound to consider," it said, and further, "... Moscow is much perturbed at any regional differences which give rise to local national policies."

Policy The segregation of the Moslem, the caste segregations of India—all these are not at all the same as the traditions and cultures of the Southern part of the United States. I am not here in the role of an apologist for either of them. I am here simply to say that any traditions and culture produced by the compresses of war, economics, defeat and a racial culture are as difficult to change as they are to explain or justify.

I sometimes wish that commentators on the problem could be as understanding as they are of the Balkans or of the Moslem or the rivalries of Pakistan and India. I do not ask for patience, but for an understanding that, even though the Dixiecrats, the demagogues and the Klansmen make it seem so, it is not willful madness which creates our own regional difference and our local nationalism and nationalistic policies, so often productive of violence.

I wish that as much as I wish we, out of our own strength, would produce our own working system of civil liberties and end discrimination within our own country. Let our Dixiecrats present us as narrow, mean people wearing a false face, saying, ironically, we cannot do what is right because we believe in States' rights.

Our Doctor Didn't Write Prescriptions

More recollections of changes the years have brought in some of the minor ways of life.

When I was a boy in England, you were, politically speaking, either a Conservative or a Liberal. In church affiliation, it was either Church of England or Nonconformist. And your family physician was either a homeopath or an allopath. I ask me the difference—check it in your encyclopedia.)

My family was Nonconformist and Liberal. And the G. P. who came around when we had the sniffles or a fever was a homeopath. Doc Smith was his name.

One nice thing about Doc Smith. You never had to have prescriptions filled at the apothecaries after he had made a call. He carried his own drug store with him.

Pills and Tinctures After he had taken your pulse, when you had obediently stuck out the tongue for inspection and after he had frowningly read the clinical thermometer, he would place his square black bag on the side of the bed and request a glass half filled with fresh water and a teaspoon.

Inside his bag were rows upon rows of little phials. Some were filled with tiny white pills, small as seed pearls. Others contained liquids, usually colorless. All the pills I ever had tasted exactly the same. Dissolved on the tongue, as directed, they tasted as sugar pills. Though each phial had a different drug name on the label, so I suppose they contained different doses.

Same with the liquids. He would uncork a phial of colorless liquid, carefully place the edge of the cork against the lip of the opening, to regulate the flow, and slowly count drops into the water glass. When the required dosage was in, the teaspoon stirred the water.

"Give him one teaspoon of the liquid every hour," he would tell my mother.

Then he would shake maybe a dozen of the small white pills into an envelope and hand this to my mother.

"One pill every two hours. The temperature should drop by this afternoon. I'll see him again tomorrow. Good day to you."

And he and his black bag were gone.

That dosed glass of water never tasted like anything but water, when taken a spoonful at a time. And the pills, as said, tasted only as sugar. But the stuff seemed to do the work. Whether Doc Smith or old Mother Nature deserved the credit, we always recovered in reasonable time.

Calendula For cuts, scratches and such minor injuries to which all childhood is frequently subject, my mother always kept on hand a bottle of some stuff labeled "Tincture of Calendula." When a wound was to be treated, she filled a shallow saucer with water, put in a few drops of the Calendula and soaked a small pad of lint in it to be applied to the injured place.

It had a pleasant odor, suggestive of ether, or a sweetish disinfectant smell. As children, we liked that stuff, both because of its pleasing aroma and because it was aromatic evidence we had been the central figure in some adventure of sufficient importance to injure and require attention.

Once, though, I was overtempted. I drank a saucerful of the stuff. There was considerable alarm and one of the maids was sent hurriedly to bring Doc Smith. (No home telephones, then.) He came, laughed at us and said I could, if I liked, drink a quart of the stuff.

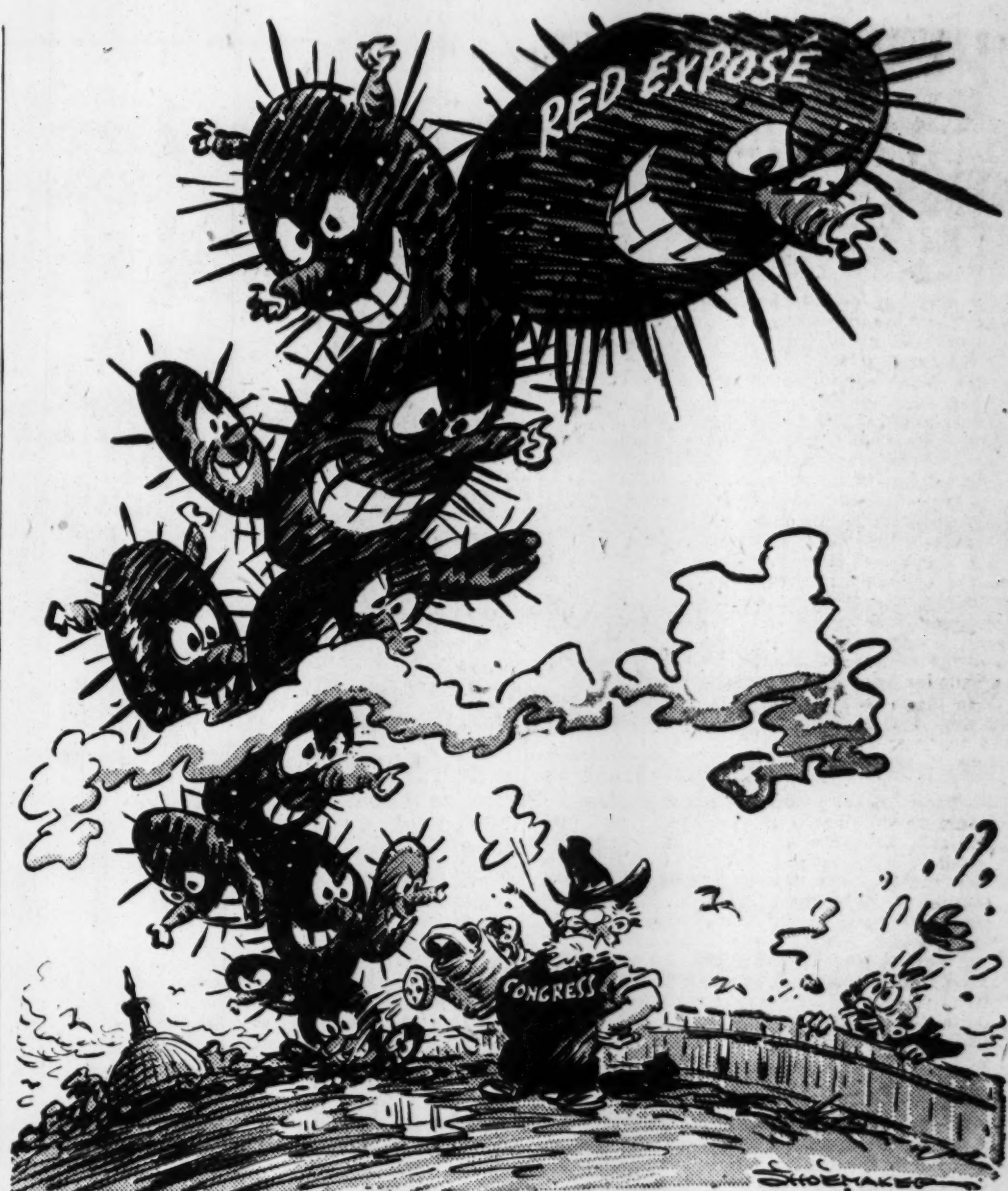

"That is," he heekily added, "properly diluted."

ALTAR STAIRS

By John Marvin Rast

If we believe not, yet he abideth faithful: he cannot deny himself.—II Timothy 2:13.

We cannot live above feelings of insufficiency and failure. God only is perfect holiness. We are, though, to press on toward the truth in thought, word and deed. As we strive it is comforting to reflect upon Paul's assuring message to Timothy: "If we are faithful, He remains faithful—for He cannot deny Himself." We are not justified in staying away from the Father for a moment. He covets our fellowship. In His love there is no encouragement to indulgence—only to accept His mercy with wills attuned to His holy intent.

Every Egg a Boost for Henry

Personally, I was an anti-Wallace man long before Pegler.

But I have only contempt for those of his critics who are literally egging him on.

The yolk's on Henry, I mean, and—to this near-reactionary, at any rate—it ain't funny.

It's not that I have any deep-seated feeling about Wallace's inalienable right to say what he thinks; although goodness knows, with the exception of the air at filling stations, speech is about the only thing left that's free.

It's just that I think that every time some bunch of bullies with cavities in their craniums mix an overdue omelet on the front of Henry's seersucker, they're making a sizable contribution to his campaign.

The Communist vote doesn't amount to much in this country. But don't underestimate the under-dog one.

There's no need in trying to make a fool out of Hank. Nature did that long ago.

The best way to defeat Henry Wallace is to make sure everybody gets a chance to hear him. . . . And, for heaven's sake, let Henry furnish his own baggage.

THE PULSE OF THE PUBLIC

The Constitution welcomes letters on either side of any subject. They should not exceed 200 words and must be signed, although names will be withheld on request. We regret none can be returned. Address all letters to Editor Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

Quit Name-Calling

Editor Constitution: "I doan lak no two face man—I never kin tell which one he got on."

Yep, you got something there, Uncle Mose.

"Nuther thing, I doan want er man promisin me sump'n 'les'n he know he gwine do it." You got something there, too, old colored man.

If the two young candidates for the Governorship were to permit me to make a "suggestion" it would be this: Name-calling tomfoolery used to be the ticket, but it won't get you anywhere in this campaign. That applies to those who are "politicking" for them in equal measure.

Norman Park. J. N. FOREMAN.

Rabun Should Quit

Editor Constitution: I made an appeal to Joe Rabun to get out of the race for Governor and join in a united fight against Roy Harris and his "little King."

Mr. Rabun, I believe, knows he doesn't have a chance. He is just a stumbling block on the road to democracy.

In an unreasonable statement on his unreasonable stand, Mr. Rabun said he was willing to flip a coin with M. E. Thompson to see which one got out of the race, but that he demanded the right to call heads and he demanded the right to use a two-headed coin.

Bufoord. HURLEY N. BIFFLE.

KKK and Herman

Editor Constitution: The author of a letter in the Aug. 21 edition stated that "the fact Sam Green is supporting Herman Talmadge for Governor should be enough to make every church-going Georgian and every citizen vote for M. E. Thompson." Evidently, the Marietta author is not a "church-going Georgian" or he would have heard the often-quoted passage of Scripture: "The Lord maketh His sun to rise on the evil and on the good, and sendeth rain on the just and the unjust."—(Matthew 5:45). I personally have no respect for the KKK, but I shall give Mr. Talmadge my vote regardless of Sam Green's support.

I shall proudly and without regret cast my vote on Sept. 8 for Herman Talmadge. I also wish to impress upon the anonymous writer of Marietta that I at least have the courage to sign my name.

Thomaston. PRESTON BENTLEY.

McGill, St. John

Editor Constitution: It is such a pity that we don't have an Atlanta newspaper that can be even halfway fair when it comes to State politics. Your editorial writers are determined to put the wrong interpretation on everything that would be at all favorable to Herman Talmadge. This is especially true with Ralph McGill and M. L. St. John.

I guess St. John was making a feeble effort at being humorous and stealing some of Jack Tarver's thunder in a recent Constitution with some of the statements he made in his column. He tries to leave the impression that there are any number of people in Georgia who are so ignorant as to think that they are still voting for Eugene Talmadge and that they won't even know Gene Talmadge is dead. Probably St. John is speaking in parables, but when he says he overheard one farmer at Winder say that he was gonna vote for Talmadge because he has been voting for him ever since he ran for Commissioner of Agriculture, frankly, I don't believe he overheard any such thing. I don't believe there is a human being in Georgia who is capable of reading and writing and, certainly, who is interested enough in politics to go to a political meeting who does not know that it is Herman Talmadge, the son of Eugene Talmadge, who is running for Governor. Then St. John goes on down further to relate something along the same line about what Candidate O'Kelley is supposed to have said to him, I don't believe that, either.

It seems to me that Ralph McGill and M. L. St. John and Ellis Arnall delight in leaving the impression that Georgia is composed of nothing but a poor, ignorant class of people who don't know what is going on. And it seems so out of place for these super-intellectuals to be wasting their writing talents on such people.

Americus. THERON JENNINGS.

3,000 at Marietta

Editor Constitution: In reply to Mr. Harrison's letter of Aug. 24 in the column of the Pulse of the Public, I was present at that speaking.

His estimate of 600 was nothing but a falsehood.

He evidently had in mind M. E. Thompson's crowd at the Courthouse two weeks prior to the Talmadge rally. In fairness to all, I would say there were more than 3,000 voters present.

It's just another example of the kind of propaganda that Thompson henchmen are putting out all over the State.

Austell. J. P. JOINER.

To Save Georgia

Editor Constitution: Wonders never cease. Thompson and Talmadge shackled labor by signing the anti-labor law, now throwing them kisses and hoping for votes. "Parson Rabun" deserted the pulpit and is scabbing on Walter White and the NAACP. Hoke O'Kelley is trying to split the "Hoke Vote" away from Willis, probably subsidized by the unholy three of Thompson, Talmadge and Rabun.

Georgia's gubernatorial race was so rotten that ultrareactionary, anti-labor Jack Tarver revolted on the situation to the extent of this reactionary, as a death-bed repentance, is successfully managing the campaign of a tried and true union man, Hoke Willis, who was a member of the American Federation of Labor before the modern-day labor leaders were born, paid dues to the good old AFL way back when he was making only $1.50 a day, is still paying his dues and getting wage increases. Hoke Willis carrying the labor vote and Jack Tarver giving him the silk stocking vote, Georgia will be saved from the Danyankees, Roy, Ellis, Ed and Col. Walden.

Atlanta. G. LOGAN.

Logical Course

Editor Constitution: The organized movement in behalf of States' rights and local self-government emanating from the Birmingham convention is the only logical and honorable course for those who believe in these principles to follow. The leaders of this movement are not bolters. They are Democrats endeavoring to restore those ideals of true Americanism once sustained by their party.

Anybody Got a Straight Razor?

My friend the banker came by the house the other night feeling somewhat low in his mind. He had dropped his razor as he shaved that evening, he said, and the blade had shattered like breaking glass. He was very upset about it. His statement puzzled me a little, and I inquired, innocently, why he did not merely put in a new blade and go on with his shaving. I did not see anything particularly tragic in such a loss. This caused him to look at me pityingly, as one looks upon a friend who has unexpectedly displayed abysmal ignorance, and he then gently explained.

This was no ordinary razor, he said, but an old-fashioned straight razor. It was, I gathered, a gift from his father or somebody, presented to him when he first reached man's estate, and he had been shaving with it for nigh on to 20 years. He had honed it and stropped it, and handled it with loving care, and in return it had removed his whiskers painlessly for three decades, from the soft down of his youth to the wiry gray whiskers of his maturer years. He could, of course, replace it with another razor of the same shape, but he hated to do so. The manufacture of straight razors, like the manufacture of buggy whips, has been a declining industry for some time now, and the modern straight razor, in addition to being held to find, does not have the same fine balance, the same good steel, he believes, that the old straight razors had.

He then went on to give a learned discourse on the joys of shaving with a straight razor and the merits of the straight razor versus the safety.

There never was fashioned a fine instrument for removing whiskers than the straight razor, he said, and the fact that it fell into disuse was in no way due to the fact that it was not a useful instrument adapted to its purpose. Any man not affiliated with palsy or St. Vitus dance, he said, could shave himself with a straight razor and never nick the skin. The straight razor went out of fashion, he said, because few men, other than barbers, ever mastered the art of sharpening one. When their razors dulled, they would have to take them down to the barbershop and have the fine edge restored again, and this was a nuisance. Solely due to this fact, the shaving habits of a multitude of men changed almost overnight when the safety razor with the blade that could be used once and thrown away appeared upon the market.

He, on the other hand, had made a profound study of the art of honing and stropping a straight razor, and years ago had become perfect at it. You sharpen a straight razor, he said, until you can just faintly hear the whisper of the whiskers being cut as the blade passes the ear. If you sharpen it so sharp that it moves through the whiskers in utter silence, it is too sharp. A man using a razor that sharp might do himself irreparable harm before he realized he was cutting himself.

Using a straight razor, he admitted, gave him another subtle satisfaction. Every man, no matter how much he may conform to accepted standards, likes to feel himself different from his fellows in some small way, and for my friend the straight razor filled this need. It gave him pleasure to enter a crowded Pullman washroom, where all his fellow passengers were standing around the washbowls with their electric razors buzzing, or shaving themselves with their safety razors, and take out his strop and his old-fashioned scythe. As the whick-whop of his strop sounded through the room they would start watching him out of the corners of their eyes.

Then, well soaped, he would lightly balance himself on the balls of his feet against the lurch and sway of the train, curve the handle back over his hand and set in just under the right sideburn. "Whoosh," the razor would glide down the flat plane of the jaw to the curve of the chin. Turning it so that the edge faced upward, four short strokes took care of the neck beneath the jawbone. Reaching across and starting under the left sideburn, one downward swoop and four more upward short strokes took care of the other half of the face. Swish—and the edge of the jawbone from beneath the left ear to beneath the right ear was clean. Two more strokes, delivered with grace and precision, took care of the upper lip.

By this time the room would be amurmer with the muttered imprecations of his fellows, who, attempting to watch him in the expectation he was going to slash his jugular, had paid too little attention to their own shaving and had taken 50 cents worth of beef-steak out of their own chins.

Then, shaven slick as a whistle while they were still trying to stanch the flow of blood with styptic pencils and bits of tissue, my friend would give his razor a couple of quick strokes on the strop to restore its edge, lay it tenderly away in his satchel and depart, chuckling.

As my friend this tale unfolded I began to understand that he has indeed suffered a great loss and I would like to do something about it. If anybody has a straight razor laid away in the attic somewhere—preferably one made some years ago when the steel in straight razors was superb, according to his report—I would like to purchase it—for a nominal fee—and make him a present of it. It might break the man's spirit if he could not put on his little act in the washroom whenever he rides on the train.

THE QUESTION:

Will the Crackers reach the playoffs?

THE ANSWERS:

J. E. MCENTYRE, 3316 Peachtree Rd., N. W., Government auditor—No, I don't think so. They can't win but one in a row.

They haven't been consistent in winning. They haven't been getting the hits in the pinches. They don't have any clutch hitters to hit when the chips are down and get them on base. They'll win next year. They need some more pitchers—some like Norm Brown.

R. W. BUSBY, 107 Ware Ave., East Point, insurance inspector—Frankly, no. I don't think Mr. Cuyler is as good a manager as he should be.

I haven't been keeping up with them too close, but their hitting is off. The fans have not been supporting them as they should. They haven't been going out to the games.

The pitching staff is good... and the infield, in fact, all the fielding is good—they're just off on the hitting.

RICHARD STEVENSON, Stone Mountain, Ga., property clerk—Well, I haven't been paying much attention to them. At the opening of the season, they won several games—then, they started losing and they couldn't seem to get back to winning again, so I just lost interest in their games.

H. F. LAMBERT, 2263 Baker Rd., N. W., apprentice mechanic—I don't know. I kind of halfway believe they will. They seem to be picking up a little from what they were at the first of the year.

I don't know too much about them—it just seems like they're doing better they they were at the first of the year. I guess they figure the people were going to stop coming to watch them if they didn't start playing ball.

The Fall Of the Python

The lion, as you know, called himself the king of beasts.

(This was a common error, based on ignorance. He had never seen a tiger, nor had he ever tangled with an angry elephant.)

The real king of the jungle was the great python—a creature no longer found in Africa.

The python was 40 feet long and heavier than a dozen lions. He did not bite, but while coiled on a great tree, he could strike a lightning blow with his iron-hard nose that would crush the skull or ribs of any enemy.

THE PYTHON was over 150 years old and seemed destined to live forever, for no other creature dared to attack him. He was immune and knew it. In fact, he felt so safe that he made no effort to hide from possible enemies, but slept in the open wherever he happened to be when a heavy meal made him drowsy. In truth, he slept too much and sometimes failed to see things he should have seen.

One day, as he slept, a flock of doves flew over the jungle crying: "The wild dogs are coming! The wild dogs are coming!" And the whole jungle was silent in fear.

The wild dogs, commonly called red dogs, were dreaded by all other creatures except the python. They thought they owned the earth. They hunted in a great pack, without consideration for anybody; and where they passed through the jungle, no food was left for other meat eaters.

When night fell, the owl waked the python to warn him. "Thanks for your concern," said the python, "but I am master here. I shall hang from a limb and strike them down as fast as they approach. My weapon has no equal, and none can stand against it."

"You don't understand," said the owl. "These dogs have something deadly you cannot see or hear. You can destroy any number, and devour them at your leisure. But once they are inside you, and you have returned to sleep, they work in darkness, without your knowledge, to poison and destroy you."

"Nonsense!" said the python. "But thanks for your good intentions." That night he hung from a limb and killed red dogs by the score. Then he swallowed a number and crawled into the tree to sleep.

Then the intestinal worms of the red dogs made their home in him and multiplied and fed upon him, and he became weak and died.

WESTBROOK PEGLER

For Whose Liberties Do They Fight?

NEW YORK—In the opening sentence of his book called "Washington Witch Hunt," which described the lavish praise which it received from the Communist press, Bert Andrews, a Washington journalist, presents himself as a warrior for "our" civil liberties. Mr. Andrews has been a gaudier honor on himself when, on his twentieth little page, he salutes a dull and motivated series of his own essays, published in the New York Herald Tribune, as "an account that shocked the nation... and encouraged those who had been too timid to fight for civil liberties."

Not since the Herald Tribune advertised the rubbish of the Lantana sneak known as John Roy Carlson, the paltry heroics of a frightened snoop, have I encountered such pretentious claims for such seedy journalism.

This fellow readily acclaims himself as a Zola, a hero whose wars were filled off in the casting. Like Carlson, who all but collapsed in terror awaiting an interview with Sen. Bob Reynolds, of North Carolina, a harmless fathead, Mr. Andrews conjures dangers which daunted men of little heart but found him brave and fine.

The Herald Tribune, which he serves in Washington, itself so dearly prized these liberties that Mrs. Irita Van Doren, a priestess in the cult which made a historic ass of Wendell Willkie, had the serene gall to inform a reader that, of course, they investigated John Roy Carlson before they were willing to stamp a high literary value on his trash. They checked him at the Department of Justice and the State Department and, she added, but later withdrew the remark because it was absolutely false. He had been planted in the FBI for a few months as an informant, but his results were paltry and he was let go, in spite of which the Herald Tribune joined in this hoax on the Americans in time of war. The intellectual goons of a paper which decries witch hunts were ready to exalt a hack who got a good report from our gestapo, or presumably to smear and smother a nonconformist.

The rise and reign and final departure from the Herald Tribune of Joseph Barnes, its foreign editor, who was planted on Willkie as his interpreter of the Russian language and political subtleties, was related in these pastorals last Winter. They may have hastened his going to become the editor and an owner, with whose financial backing the public never was told Marshall Field's thing, known also as PM, PU and now as the New York Star. Mr. Barnes was a savage anti-Nazi who somehow was always prevented from coming to bloody grips with the Hun. The details of his ideology and associations have been published here.

Now, considering these sketchy references to the Herald Tribune's politics and its attitude toward intellectual freedom and civil liberties, one may ask what is the idea of the over-zealous Mr. Andrews by Mr. Andrews in the Herald Trib?

His lament is raised on behalf of a mythical Government employee who gets fired at the pleasure of the Government on reasonable suspicion that he keeps bad company.

This seems to Mr. Andrews to be a terrible thing. For more than 10 years I have been waging a campaign against the wanton firing and blacklisting of Americans through the power of unions, which got this power direct from the Roosevelt Government. This power was conferred as a political favor to an auxiliary of the Roosevelt party. About 15,000,000 citizens are now subject to such dismissal and blacklisting by unions with only the most illusory right of appeal to the public courts. The fact that that right is an illusion is shown by the fact that no such case has ever reached the Supreme Court. Not more than a dozen may be found of record in the inferior courts.

Such dismissal and ostracism may be imposed as a penalty for the expression of political opinions, for buying goods in forbidden stores, and for joining a forbidden political party or faction. They may be thus persecuted, and their dependents with them, for organizing orderly parliamentary opposition in their union meetings or holding caucuses outside regular meetings to organize opposition to thieves, racketeers and thugs. They may be thrown out permanently, under total expulsion, and thus barred forever from membership in all other sympathetic unions, in other trades, for announcing in this year, 1948, that they intend to vote for Gov. Dewey for President. Some were so punished for so announcing in 1944.

This year the CIO has expelled Harry Bridges from his position of regional director on the Pacific Coast because he exercised his legal right of political preference by siding with Governor Wallace. That is a restraint on his political liberty.

Such intimidation, the abridgment of the political and intellectual rights and the rights of association of millions of citizens, has gone unnoticed by the Herald Tribune and Mr. Andrews. This persecution is rarely based on Communism, however. Most often it is a punishment for protest against racketeering or robbery. And the threat and the power are so well understood that actual cases are few because the subjects of the union system of terror know they can't win. Therefore they submit.

Mr. Andrews and the Herald Tribune are late. Most of their clients have the appearance of guilt. The utter impossibility of giving them formal trials on the issue of Communism is apparent to all who recall the trials of Harry Bridges, which took five years and cost a million, and his final vindication by a split verdict of the Supreme Court.

The United States should have the power to fire anyone on suspicion. There is no right to any such job. In actual practice it isn't the Communist or the fellow traveler who gets fired. It is the American working in a bureau where there is a cell of Communists.

He Contributed To Talmadge

(C. E. Etheridge in Houston Home Journal)

I contributed to the Talmadge campaign! It will be difficult for the Talmadge folks to believe, but I DID contribute to his campaign. But I didn't mean to.

You see, one of the Talmadge-lovers gave me a check to pay for a Talmadge advertisement of his Fort Valley speech in The Home Journal and the check was like Herman's 67 days in the Governor's chair—no good.

I contributed $12.60 to the Talmadge campaign and I have the check—made out of pure Indian rubber—to show for it.

What have I ever done to deserve this?

It's Your Duty To Vote

(Bartow Herald)

Regardless of your preference in the coming primary on Sept. 8, every voter should accept as his responsibility the duty of casting his ballot. Only through acceptance of this responsibility can the will of the people be determined.

All too often in the past many people, with decided opinions, have failed to express themselves through voting. The result has been that the outcome of many an election has been determined by partisan politicians—and by those who more or less have a direct interest in the outcome of the campaign for personal or business reasons. Ordinary clear-thinking and intelligent citizens have failed to vote.

Lack of interest in our governmental affairs results in bad government. Lack of interest on the part of citizens to protect the running of their public affairs has resulted in graft and corruption.

On Sept. 8, let's all go to the polls and vote. Those who feel that they have no interest in government should remember what might happen if they should lose the privilege of voting.

Paved—At His Expense

(J. Roy McGinty in Calhoun Times)

In the event any of my suspicious-minded constituents have taken note of the few yards of blacktop paving I have put on my driveway up at Mount Alto, this is to advise that it was done at my own expense, and that, if you desire, the city construction department will pave your driveway at exactly the same rate charged me by the city for this paving. The Mayor of Calhoun has no special privileges—but plenty of special duties.

Crop Rotation Will Boost Cotton Yield

THURSDAY, SEPT. 2, 1948

Suggestion of the day: While we are stabilizing the road banks to keep the soil out of the streams, we could add to the beauty of the roadways and thereby add to our tourist crops.

DON'T BUCK FATE

We are discussing cotton and the possibilities of making it profitable and yesterday we quoted figures from the Soil Conservation Service experiment station at Watkinsville showing that where cotton is grown on average land year after year, the best yields obtained were 765 pounds of seed cotton even though all the best practices were used.

DON'T BUCK FATE

These were the best figures. On another field of average land, only 559 pounds of seed cotton were made. And here again the best practices were applied even to the extent of using 500 pounds of 6-6-6 fertilizer and 100 pounds of nitrate of soda.

advocate of cotton will urge farmers to continue to plant it if they can do no better than the above-mentioned official figures. Not with today's production costs.

But here we are confronted by real encouraging news. If the farmer will follow the three-year rotation of cotton followed by oats followed by Kobs lespezea for seed and then Kobs lespezea for hay and then back into cotton, he will find on the completion of this three-year cycle that he has brought his yield up to 1,070 pounds of seed cotton. And this may bring it into the profit range if the farm is so managed that the cotton production helps balance the entire farm operation. Meanwhile the farmer reduces his soil losses annually from 28 tons to 3-13 tons per acre.

Here's a point to remember. We are discussing Class 3 land, which is average Piedmont land with half the topsoil gone and with about seven percent slope.

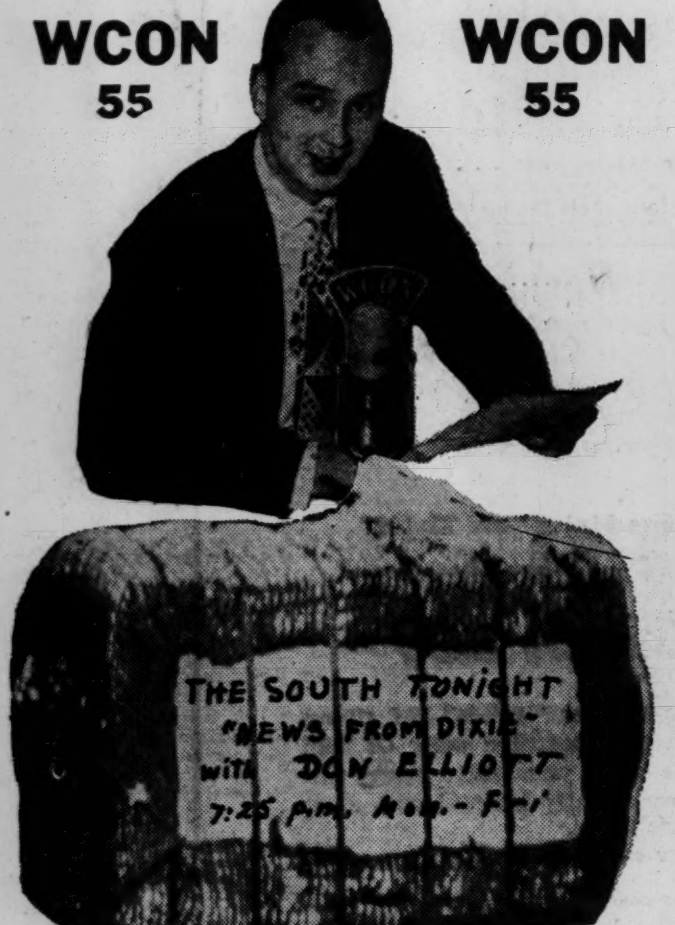

On Class 4 land, with topsoil mostly gone and with 11 percent slope, the top figure is 616 pounds of seed cotton per acre. And many of our farmers are still trying to make a go of cotton on this type of land. Such a farmer is licked from the beginning and nothing that we or the professionals can say will change his condition. Unless... we can get him to come down off those barren hills onto his better lands.

A 'For Rent' Sign Points to Murder

By RITA VAN PELT

When a "For Rent" sign appears on an apartment building, it causes a near riot... whether it be in our own home town or any other large city in the country. When Dick Powell, as "Hildy Johnson" of WCNC-ABC's Front Page program, investigates a vacancy sign on a building, he uncovers more than a minor catastrophe... a murder case in which the tenant (obviously a psychopathic case) plays the piano after committing a crime... It's the exciting plot of tonight's episode of the thrilling newspaper drama, Front Page at 8 p. m., WCNC.

Drama and Mystery

Can a "plain Jane" ever get anywhere in a glamorous profession? Marie Randolph, a would-be actress, asks that question and gets a surprise answer in the unusual story on today's "My True Story"—WCON at 10 a. m.

66,000 Sign Draft Forms Over State

Fulton County and Georgia draft registration centers yesterday reported the heaviest traffic since young men began signing on the dotted line for the new peacetime draft.

Three days of registration have netted approximately 66,000 youths pouring through draft centers over the State. Out of the total, 8,500 signed up from Fulton County.

The Progressive Party does not advise youths to refuse to register for the draft and does not advocate any resistance whatever to military service, Floyd Hunter, Chairman of the Atlanta Wallace-Joe for President Committee, said yesterday.

Hunter said the Progressive Party does think President Truman should hold up the draft "at least" until the outcome of the Moscow talks is known.

Hunter's clarification of the Progressive Party's position in respect to selective service came as the result of a news story in yesterday's Constitution. The story gave the impression that the Progressive Party urged youths to "skip registration" for the draft.

The heaviest registration yesterday wound up the procedure for men born in 1923. The 24-year-old group, or men born in 1924, will register today and tomorrow.

Youths in any of the age groups who are ill and unable to stand in line can wait until after Sept. 18 to report to their nearest registration board, draft officials announced yesterday. Special registration will be arranged for those who continue ill after that time.

The nearest relative is urged to report such facts to the nearest board after Sept. 18, officials added.

Officers' Case Postponed To Tuesday

Hearing on warrants alleging three Fulton County officers beat a prisoner was postponed yesterday on account of the illness of a defense lawyer.

Judge Robert Carpenter, of Fulton County Court, put the case on the calendar for next Tuesday at 11 a. m. Atty. Marvin O'Neal, for the prosecutor, and Atty. Mose Hayes, representing the defense, agreed to that time.

Hayes said Ellis Barrett, chief lawyer for the defense, had an eye infection which would keep him from court yesterday.

The defendants are County Patrolmen D. C. Harrison and O. W. Jordan and Glenn Lee, in charge of the county bloodhounds. W. H. Norton, 24-year-old Stone Mountain, secured warrants against the men, charging they beat him after bloodhounds cornered him following his flight from an allegedly stolen automobile which had struck a parked car.

HAS OWN AIRPORT

Octogenarian Takes 'Kid,' 50, On Plane Ride

DECATUR, Ill., Sept. 1.—(AP)—Anyone believing aviation is strictly for young folks better shy away from Star Nelson.

Nelson, who is 82 and known as "the old man of aviation," flew his own airplane into Decatur yesterday. He was en route to a meeting of the flying farmers in Columbus, Ohio.

Tall, rangy and with a Western tang to his speech, Nelson has been flying for almost nine years—"ever since the railroad company decided I was too damn old to run an engine," he said.

"After leaving the railroad, I bought my own plane and an airport to go with it," he added. He is from Delta, Col.

Accompanying Nelson on the flight was a 50-year-old friend. "I have to show this kid the sights," Nelson explained. "He's never been out of the State before."

Nelson said the Columbus trip is kind of a "celebration."

"Just got out of the hospital last week," he said. "Have to get rid of the smell of the place. Worse than a cattle barn."

At that he stalked back to his plane and leaped to a wing. His "boy" friend hurried after him, calling, "Don't forget me, Star."

Cancel Atheism Rule, Harness Advises FCC

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The head of a House Committee advised the Federal Communications Commission today to cancel its controversial ruling that has broadcasters wondering where to draw the line at airing atheism.

Rep. Harness, Republican, Indiana, Chairman of a special group investigating the FCC, said the 1946 opinion was "most unfortunate," and he believed the FCC exceeded its authority.

While FCC officials came to defense of the ruling, the Rev. Edmund A. Walsh, S. J., Vice President of Georgetown University, asailed the decision's basic principles.

Judge Robert Carpenter, of Fulton County Court, put the case on the calendar for next Tuesday at 11 a. m. Atty. Marvin O'Neal, for the prosecutor, and Atty. Mose Hayes, representing the defense, agreed to that time.

Hayes said Ellis Barrett, chief lawyer for the defense, had an eye infection which would keep him from court yesterday.

Menace: Drug Store Cowgirls

By DORIS LOCKERMAN

In many an Atlanta pharmacy, one of the real hazards are drugstore cowgirls who do their shopping by delivery boy only.

A harried owner has complained that it is one thing to send out a boy on a motor scooter to deliver a needed prescription, a drug product, or even a sandwich, but quite another to tie up the same service delivering a three-cent stamp.

It really happens. A package of cigarettes, a candy bar, a stamp, and the balance in magazines, is the way many indolent customers meet the minimum 50-cent purchase requirement for free delivery.

"These," moaned the owner, "are all accommodation items, and we hardly make a penny on the order."

Cartons of soft drinks, sold at exactly the fountain price, went like comic books by scooter delivery, until the store put a five-cent premium on the container. That nickel quenched hundreds of desperate thirsts.

The magazine problem is one of the worst. Customers have a habit of ordering a package of reading, and having the boy wait while they look through the volumes to which ones look interesting.

They're even worse than the youngsters who come in and spend several hours each afternoon going over the comics. At least the small fry reach for their own editions, and don't ask anybody to put them away when they leave. They just toss 'em on the floor.

These (Sigh) Charming People!

Atlanta women won another absentee honor a week or so ago when Serge de Gorin, who says he is a world traveler, named them as fourth laziest (and therefore most charming) in the world. The exact category, fourth place, is a thoughtful touch from Mr. de Gorin, who says he has analyzed more than 200,000 beautiful women in every country.

"Atlanta's women," he says gratuitously, "are lazy, but they understand the art of gracious living, something very rare in America. They understand what men seek in women, too."

The first six in his lazy-charming list include in order, Cairo, Pittsburgh, Mexico City, Atlanta, Manila and New York.

DEMOS and DIXIECRATS, Please Note!

Mrs. Raymond Clapper, the late newspaper columnist's wife, says that if Thomas E. Dewey is elected President, women will play a more prominent part in Federal Government than ever before. In the latest issue of Look Magazine, she points out that Dewey has appointed 224 women in key government posts in New York... twice as many top women as the next nearest State.

"Tom Dewey," she says, "regards women for public office solely upon their qualifications. It's on that basis that he chooses them."

Picnics

Simple menus are best for back-yard picnics. Frankfurters, baked in a ripe olive and tomato barbecue sauce, piping hot ears of corn, a relish bouquet of crisp garden vegetables and chunks or slices of ice-cold watermelon, are easy to get together and taste wonderful to outdoor appetites.

Raisin All-Bran Bread

1 egg, ¼ cup sugar, ¼ cup molasses, 1 cup sour milk or buttermilk, 2 tablespoons melted shortening, ½ cup chopped raisins, 1 cup All-Bran, 2½ cups sifted flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1½ teaspoons salt, ½ teaspoon soda.

Beat egg well. Add sugar, molasses, milk, shortening and All-Bran; mix well; let stand until most of moisture is taken up. Add sifted dry ingredients with raisins and stir only until flour disappears. Spread in greased loaf pan with waxed paper in the bottom. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 1 hour. Yield: 1 loaf (4½x9½-inch pan).

Life's Tangled Web

By ANGELA BROWN

Dear Mrs. Brown:

Both my husband and my mother are involved in my problem and I am at a loss as to what to do. I love them both dearly and the fact that I can not have any peace in my home is making my life miserable. My mother opposed my marrying my husband, but since then she has discovered her mistake and has learned to care for him. But here is the trouble: My husband still resents her former attitude toward him and does not want me to see her and as I will not stay away from her I am afraid that I will lose him. What can I do? I love them both and want a happy home. Distracted Wife and Daughter.

ANSWER—Your husband should think of your happiness rather than his resentment toward your mother, and it should be his first consideration. Try discussing the matter with him and try to make him realize this, that "all is forgiven" as far as your mother is concerned, anyway. A good, sensible heart-to-heart talk with him will do far more than a continued wrangle and fuss, and in that way some definite understanding may result. Mother-in-law trouble is as old as life itself and under present circumstances I think your mother should try to ease her situation by trying to make friends with him. If he really loves you, I don't think you will lose him.

Dear Mrs. Brown:

I have made love to a girl because I felt sorry for her, and now she tells me she is in love with me and is trying to get me hemmed in. I really meant to be kind, but now that it is too late, I see my mistake. What can I do? Hurry up with the answer.

John.

ANSWER—Tell her you don't love her NOW, but don't say you didn't love her before. Tell her you hate to hurt her but in all fairness to her and to yourself you will have to be honest with her and tell her the truth. You'll probably have a time trying to convince her, but it will teach you a lesson not to be so ardent in your lovemaking in the future.

Dear Mrs. Brown:

We have built a new church in our community. The question came up as to how to place the pews in the choir. Some said the choir was supposed to face the pastor, and some say they should face the congregation. Please let me know which is correct.

E. E. D.

ANSWER—Churches, such as the Episcopal and the Roman Catholic, have chancels and altars. In this case, the choir stalls are placed on either side of the chancel entrance, wherein the choir members face each other. Other churches, as a general pattern, have the choir members seated behind the pastor and in that position face the congregation.

VICTIMS NO LONGER OUTCASTS

Leprosy Less Infectious Than TB, Says Worker

By LENNA MCKINLEY

Leprosy is the least infectious of all infectious diseases. Contact with a person having TB carries 10 to 30 times the danger of infection as does this disease which in Biblical days labeled its victims as "unclean" and made them social outcasts.

This startling statement comes from Mrs. T. R. Husk, Field Secretary for the Southern States, American Mission to Lepers, an organization which helps to support 125 leper colonies over the world. Mrs. Husk travels over seven States in her work for this cause, and her headquarters are at Dallas, Texas.

She is in Atlanta at the invitation of the Atlanta Council of Church Women, where, during visited our own Government-supported Leprosarium at Carville, La., and have shaken hands with patients there with no fear.

"As with cancer, medical science still has much to learn about the treatment of leprosy," she pointed out. "But one thing is sure—the disease can be arrested. And there is no cause for casting out such people as unclean—the disease is not caused by filth or immorality. Kings have been its victims. There are many rich people at Carville today, living under assumed names to protect their families from the disgrace attached to the disease because of public ignorance."

It was explained by Mrs. Husk that her purpose in talking to church groups, including all denominations, is to give them authentic information as to the nature of the disease, tell them how it can be arrested, and give them the opportunity to contribute to the fund of the American Mission to Lepers, which provides any material needs requested by colonies abroad.

Thousands of piggy banks are now being distributed through local Sunday Schools so that children can have a part in the Christian work. It was explained that $30 will support a child in any foreign country for a whole year in one of these colonies, and that $40 will take care of all actual needs of an adult so afflicted.

"The American Mission to Lepers, Inc., is interdenominational, international and interracial," she pointed out. "We are interested in healing sick bodies and helping these people to grow spiritually. We send out no missionaries, but work through missionaries working in those fields under the direction of their own churches."

In spite of the heavy speaking schedule already set up for her, Mrs. Husk explained that she will be available for several more talks during her stay in Atlanta. Mrs. Curtis A. Hartley, Atlanta Council of Church Women Chairman for this work, will arrange additional speaking dates with organizations interested in hearing Mrs. Husk.

MRS. T. R. HUSK

With Piggie Bank

September, she is scheduled to talk to some 25 women's church groups about the part they can take in this great work.

"The public is grossly misinformed on the subject of leprosy," said Mrs. Husk. "There are 10 million victims of leprosy in the world, and it has been estimated that there are perhaps 5,000 in the United States. These people must be dealt with, not as outcasts—criminals—but as sick people, just as victims of any other diseases are treated. I have

SALLY FORTH Says: Adm., Mrs. Halsey Feted By Irene and Green Warren

Quite the most exciting thing that has happened in a long while at Highlands—that fashionable mountain resort which lures vacationists from all over the country—is the visit of Adm. and Mrs. William Halsey, who have completely captivated the community with their graciousness and charm.

The Halseys are spending two weeks with their close friends, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Gossett, of Charlotte, N. C., who summer at Highlands. The Admiral and Mrs. Gossett attended the Naval Academy together and so when the Gossetts' invitation came, the Halseys accepted at once, planning a quiet vacation—far from the madding herd.

It seems that the Halseys are completely enamored with Irene and Green Warren, who have been vacationing at Highlands. They have dined with the Warrens on several evenings, and delightful evenings they were! Green, being an ex-Navy man himself, stationed at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station during World War II, was fascinated by the stories of the Admiral's experiences.

The Halseys are residing at Charlottesville, Va., where the Admiral heads a foundation for the raising of funds for the University of Virginia.

Dorothy Barfield Is Back

Dorothy (Mrs. Forrest M.) Barfield is just back after a delightful vacation. Her first stop was Washington, D. C., where she spent a week, taking in all of the interesting points in the national capital.

Then Dorothy visited her sister and brother-in-law, Col. and Mrs. W. W. Whelchel, who reside at Fortness Manor, Va. The Whelchels entertained their sister royally, even to a dinner party at charming Williamsburg Inn in Williamsburg.

Arb Baby To Be Christened

Little Philip Antony Arb, the adorable four-month-old son of Dr. and Mrs. Raymond Arb, will be christened Sunday at the morning service at the First Presbyterian Church.

The baby will wear a beautiful orange dress, the gift of Eloise Dickey (Winfield) Jones, which was given for his sister Corbie's christening and was also worn by his brother Charles.

Mr. and Mrs. William Mason will be godparents for the baby, and the officiating minister will be Dr. J. D. Phillips, the assistant pastor of the church.

Bridal Finery for Miss Saffarans

When lovely Douglas Saffarans becomes Mrs. John Cutcliffe tomorrow evening at St. Luke's Episcopal Church, she will present a picture of youthful beauty in her wedding attire of exquisite imported lace. The gown belongs to her cousin, the former Zaida Clay, who wore it when she became the bride of Joseph Ratteree last year.

Three accessories of her wedding attire will bear sentiment, also. She will wear a strand of pearls, the gift of her mother, Mrs. Paine Saffarans, and a diamond bracelet which is the gift of her grandmother, Mrs. Thomas B. Paine. Tucked in her glove will be a rare lace handkerchief which Mrs. Paine carried when, as Douglas Gay, she became the bride of the late and beloved Tom Paine.

Miss Louise Mansfield Marries James A. Russell

Miss Louise Mansfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Mansfield, became the bride of James A. Russell, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Russell and the late Mrs. Russell, yesterday afternoon at the Peachtree Christian Church. Dr. Robert Burns officiated and Richard Thomasson was organist.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Carroll Milam, Jr., of Jacksonville, Fla., sister of the bride. Richard Russell was his brother's best man.

Ushers were Overwood Whitmore, Carroll Milam, Jr., of Jacksonville; Harry R. Stone, Lawrence Mansfield, and Henderson C. Ward.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of fragile white lace and chiffon made with a panel of applied lace in the front of the skirt. Her veil was attached to a lace Juliet cap with clusters of valley lilies and she carried white orchids and stephanotis.

Mr. and Mrs. Mansfield entertained at a reception at the Capital City Club. Assisting in entertaining were Mrs. Henderson C. Ward, Mrs. J. G. Bradbury, Mrs. T. V. Heard, Mrs. H. R. Stone, Miss Mary Frances Stubbs and Miss Beverly Turner.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. T. V. Heard, of Nashville, Tenn.; Miss Virginia Austin, of Boston, Mass.; Mrs. G. K. Murdock and Miss Anne Murdock, of Portland, Ore.; James R. Russell and Richard Russell, of Texarkana, Texas.

Beauty and the Beets: Bring out the beauty in "Plain Jane" beets by serving them with Orange Sauce. Melt 1 Tbsp. butter, add 2 Tbsp. brown sugar, 1 Tbsp. flour and blend. Next you add 1/2 cup orange juice, 1/2 tsp. grated orange rind, cook and stir until thickened. Pour over seasoned, sliced beets and heat thoroughly. A tasty entrée—an interesting vegetable! I've a skillet-ful for you here today and again next week.

LGI-For Excursions

PITTSBURGH—(INS)—If the sailors who manned the Navy's LCI's during the last war ever thought their type craft would some day be converted into a river excursion boat, they probably would have joined the Army. But, that's exactly what happened. One of Pittsburgh did. Nicholas bought an LCI for the government for $10,000 and is having it converted.

He has studied at the Juilliard School of Music in New York for his career as a concert harpist and he has completed a season with the Memphis Open Air Theater.

The groom's father was best man. Clayton W. Graves and Hill Powell were usher-groomsmen.

The Show Must Go On Sans Food, Says Evelyn Hanna

By YOLANDE GWIN

Britain's love for old world pageantry overshadows her need for economic maintenance, according to Evelyn Hanna, the distinguished Georgia novelist and Constitution columnist.

"The show must go on, and the British will sacrifice food in order to carry on traditional customs for the benefit of American tourists," she said last night as she spoke on "Current Conditions in England" to a capacity audience gathered for the grand opening of the newly decorated Woman's Club Auditorium.

"The lack of raw material will keep rationing with us for 15 more years at least," she pointed out, adding that the food situation is no better. The largest part of England's income today comes from the American tourists. They are welcomed with open arms, she said, but to keep up this pageantry and show something must be sacrificed.

And it's food. The present economic condition is due to an over abundance of manufacturing facilities and lack of raw materials. England and Wales together, she said, are approximately the size of the State of Georgia with at least 15 times the population.

Winston Churchill is still loved and admired, but is too feeble to take on leadership should the Tories win control of the Government again, Miss Hanna said. Britain is ready for a change, and Socialism is a good thing now since the labor government is in control, and as the Tories offered nothing of a domestic quality which was constructive. Socialized medicine, on the other hand, will work a hardship on the employers, but will be a boon to the employee.

For hungry youngsters, there's nothing better than a hearty filling sandwich and a glass of milk. Mash the rich, butter-soft fruit from the pebbly-skinned Summer Calavo and use as a spread on wholewheat bread.

Top with a slice of tomato and leaf lettuce. They'll yell for more.

SYMPHONY GIFT TO COMMUNITY

Dr. C. W. Dickmann, Director of Music at Agnes Scott College, has this to say about the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra:

"The full flowering of the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra, under the able leadership of Mr. Henry Sopkin, promises for Atlanta and the adjacent territory the opportunity of hearing the world's greatest creations written for the symphony orchestra. The spiritual and cultural rewards to the community which can enjoy such a privilege are beyond all calculation."

Tickets for the 1948-49 Atlanta Symphony series of eight concerts are now on sale at the Symphony box office, Lanier Piano Company, 64 Pryor St., N. E., telephone number, CY. 4541.

Atlanta Will Miss Cuyler as Manager

Elsewhere in today's sports section you will read Ki Ki Cuyler's own words that he isn't returning to Atlanta to manage the Crackers in 1949, thereby confirming what everybody has suspected all along.

This corner has always had the idea that Cuyler is a good baseball manager. This opinion was developed through conversations with experts in the game who have seen his work, from his record as a pilot both here and at Chattanooga, and a personal knowledge of the man.

There are those who take considerable delight in disagreeing every time we write complimentary about Cuyler. They are the same folks who are leading the boos against him every time he jerks a pitcher, inserts a pinch hitter or even walks to his place in the coaching box.

Of course, that is a privilege that belongs to a paying customer. This is not intended in any way to ignore that right.

Neither is it intended as argument that a change should not be made or that the new manager, whoever he may be, will be behind the eight ball before he starts.

But Ki will be missed, both here in Atlanta and all over the Southern League, if he doesn't remain in the loop, which isn't at all unlikely.

A Gentleman To begin with, Cuyler is something more than a good manager. He is a real gentleman, a clean liver, an inspiration to kids, and thereby an asset to the entire game.

He doesn't drink or smoke and he has cared for himself in such a manner that even now he could outrun a lot of the members of his team in a foot race.

But, above all, he has been a real friend of the kids. Time and again requests have come in to the baseball club for a couple of the players to appear here and there, at boys' clubs or sandlot games or civic clubs. Ki has always volunteered to go and, to my knowledge, has never turned down a request. "I consider it part of my job," he once remarked. "Then, too, I get as big a kick out of it as the kids."

Baseball in general and the Southern League in particular need a lot more people like that.

Enjoyed It Here Cuyler hates to leave Atlanta. "I've enjoyed living here," he said. "Everybody has been swell to me and I never expect to spend five more pleasant years anywhere."

But he realizes that it is best for himself and the club for a change to be made. When a club which is figured for first division mires up in the lower half, fans have to blame somebody and usually it's the manager.

Consequently, no matter how the front office of that club feels about it, a change is almost mandatory.

In many respects his four years with the Crackers resembles that of Paul Richards. Both had highly successful seasons here but both became targets of the fans' wrath when the club wasn't going too well.

To repeat what we've already said, it's probably best for everybody that a change be made.

There is no need to shed any tears over Cuyler. Baseball needs too many men like him for him to want for a job.

Kirby Wins, 4 and 3, In 2d Round Match

By RUSS NEWLAND

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—(AP)—California Title Holder Dot Kieley, of Long Beach, nosed out Marjorie Lindsay, of Decatur, Ill., 1 up, today in an airtight second-round match of the Women's Western golf championship.

Miss Kieley had to fire a two-under-par 74 on the Olympic Club's lakeside course to win from the former Illinois State links queen. Miss Lindsay posted a 75.

Atlanta's Dorothy Kirby, another favorite, eliminated Patricia McPhee, San Mateo, 4 and 3, in a loosely played contest.

Two Long Beach entries engaged in a hot battle with Mrs. James Ferris, former California champion, squeezing by 14-year-old Marlene Bauer, co-medalist, 1 up.

The Kieley-Lindsay match was sensational, just as forecast, Miss Lindsay led twice the first five holes, bagging birdies on the third and fifth. However, Miss Kieley squared it with a birdie 2 on the short eighth and went 1 up at the ninth with a birdie 4.

Miss Lindsay bowed out in thrilling fashion. Her second shot landed in a trap bordering the 18th green. She chipped out and the ball landed in the cup, but bounced out. Had the ball stayed in, it would have evened the match.

Alice O'Neal, 21-year-old Indianapolis girl who holds the Indiana title, defeated experienced campaigner Dorothy Traug, San Francisco, 4 and 2.

Dahlbender Defeats Champs at Memphis

By BERT PRATHER
Constitution Sports Writer

MEMPHIS COUNTRY CLUB, Sept. 1.—Twenty-four-year-old Gene Dahlbender, Jr., of Atlanta's Capital City Country Club, winner of the Southern Amateur crown this year, turned in the greatest performance of his career here today when he eliminated two national champions to reach the fifth round of the forty-eighth annual National Amateur Golf Championship.

In his morning round, Gene shot present club champion at Santa Rosa, Calif., and last year's champion, California Amateur. He is an in- Robert H. (Skee) Riegel, out of surprise, broke. Dahlbender had the entire responsibility of carrying the Georgia banner to victory tonight. Jack Key, Jr., of Columbus Country Club, fell out this morning when the current National Intercollegiate titleholder, 32.

Entering the Riegel match a 1 to 2 underdog, Dahlbender showed little or no concern over the progress of his famous opponent from Monterey Park, Calif., and proceeded to fire a sizzling three under par 32 at him. Riegel was tallying a creditable 36 in the battle again, this time to eliminate Robert Harris, of Los Gatos, Calif., the current National Intercollegiate titleholder, 32.

The afternoon scrap was a ding-dong battle through the first nine, which ended all square with a pair of 36s. But starting at the 10th, young Harris folded completely before the marching monster. He dropped 10, halved 11 with a six and then dropped 12, 13 and 14 to the Capital City precisionist. Here again Dahlbender stood on the 15th tee with his opponent four down and four to go. Gene then dropped No. 15 to a birdie three and it looked like a repeat of the Riegel match, but he closed out the battle by halving 16 with a par three.

It was truly a great job for the Atlantan, probably his greatest single day on the links. Certainly the Nation knows plenty about him tonight. The writers here are beginning to plug him plenty. Tomorrow morning he faces Louis Cass, of Hollywood, Cal., and, if successful, will reach the quarter-finals. This would earn him a bid to next year's Masters, quite a prize in itself.

Cass is a weekend golfer and never has won anything of importance during his career. He is the ture fifth round tussle at 9:48 this morning. Two more 18-hole rounds will be played tomorrow, which will reduce the field to four. Semi-final rounds will be played Friday over the 36-hole route with the finals hooked Saturday over the same distance.

Here is the way they line up for tomorrow's fifth round: 9 a. m.—Chuck Kocsis, Royal Oak, Mich., vs. Frank Stranahan, Toledo.

9:08 a. m.—Ray Billows, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., vs. William Barrett, Memphis.

9:16 a. m.—Julius Boros, Bridgeport, Conn., vs. Charlie Coe, Oklahoma City.

9:24 a. m.—Arthur Armstrong, Honolulu, vs. John O. Levinson, Chicago.

9:32 a. m.—Ham Carothers, Greenwood, Miss., vs. James McGonagill, Shreveport, La.

9:40 a. m.—Gene Dahlbender, Jr., Atlanta, vs. Louis Cass, Hollywood, Calif.

9:48 a. m.—Bud Ward, Spokane, Wash., vs. Willie Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y.

BROWN MISSES HIS 22D

Lookouts Defeat Crackers, 2 to 1

By JESSE OUTLAR
Constitution Sports Writer

ENGEL STADIUM, CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Sept. 1.—Norman Brown, seeking his 22nd victory, out-pitched Dick Weik in a bitter hurling duel here tonight, but suffered his 11th defeat as the Crackers failed to connect in the clutch enabling the Lookouts to squeeze out a 2-1 victory in the opener of a three-game series.

The defeat, which marred "Ralph Brown" night for Summerville fans here tonight, snapped a 10-game Lookout losing streak. After a shaky first inning in which the Lookouts scored both of their runs on Angel Fleitas' single to right, a line triple to right by Larry Drake and an infield fly by But Hajduk's best effort was a back to get Maynard on a fly to only 23 men in the last seven innings. Mike Ullery's single in the second and Weik's one-baser in the fifth were the only other blows off the Cracker ace. Brown didn't walk a man and deserved a better fate. In all fairness to Weik, he hurled a fine game. He yielded only four hits, the same number as Brown, but issued seven bases on balls. However, when the pressure was on, the young right-hander had what it takes.

The third inning is a good example. Buster Maynard walked to open the frame, then, after Glock fanned, Ralph Brown drew a pass. Weik retired Neill on a roller, but Red Mathis stroled. Undismayed, Weik reared a back to get Maynard on a fly to third.

Even in the ninth, it looked as if the Crackers might pull it out of the fire for Brownie. With one away, Ernie Logan, hitting for Norman, singled to center, and Chapman, running for Logan, stole. After looking over the Summerville delegation, Joe Engel remarked, "There's more people here from Summerville than from Chattanooga." Then he added, "It's that way every night."

Manager Ki Ki Cuyler plans to send Carl Lindquist to the mound tomorrow night, while Lookout Skipper George Myatt was undecided about his choice. Country Brown Night was a huge success from every angle. More than 300 Summerville and Chattanooga County fans turned out to honor their favorite son. Country was presented $600 and a varied assortment of gifts, ranging from shirts to a country ham, in a pregame ceremony at home plate.

After looking over the Summerville delegation, Joe Engel remarked, "There's more people here from Summerville than from Chattanooga." Then he added, "It's that way every night."

Red Sox Tounce Tigers To Maintain Loop Lead

The Boston Red Sox maintained their American League lead yesterday by defeating the Detroit Tigers, 10-1, to give Right-hander Jack Kramer his fifteenth pitching win. It was the Tigers' final visit to Fenway Park, where they lost nine of their 11 starts this season.

The Soxers blasted four pitchers for 10 hits and also collected seven bases on balls, three of which forced in runs.

Virgil Trucks opened for Detroit and had a one-hitter going until he started to wilt in the fifth, during which the Soxers scored twice on two-baggers by Billy Goodman and Dom DiMaggio and singles by Birdie Tebbetts and Billy Hitchcock.

Trucks blew sky-high in the sixth, when the Red Sox set off a seven-run rally. Ted Williams launched it with his only hit of the game and the bases became jammed when Stan Spence walked and Goodman hit safely.

Trucks was yanked for Hal White after Tebbetts walked to force in the third Boston run and Hitchcock drove in two more tallies with a single.

Bob Feller turned in his second straight fine pitching performance in a night game at Philadelphia as the Cleveland Indians swept the two-game series with the Philadelphia Athletics, winning 8-1 before a crowd of 24,607. Feller fanned nine batters while permitting only six hits.

Larry (Yogi) Berra poled his thirteenth homer of the year in the twelfth inning to give the New York Yankees an uphill, 5-4 victory over the St. Louis Browns at New York Trailing 4-1, the Yankees scored single runs in the sixth, seventh and ninth innings to tie the count and set the stage for Berra's blow.

Chicago's White Sox poured 3 runs across the plate in the ninth inning but the rally was checked by Forrest Thompson and Washington escaped with a 5-4 victory in a night game. The win moved the Senators into sixth place in the American League.

MUST FILL BIG SHOES—

Gene Lorendo, burly 200-pounder, may be the key to Georgia's success or failure in football this year. Lorendo, a much decorated veteran of the Pacific campaign, will take over the job held last season by Capt. Dan Edwards at left end. He is a fine pass receiver, but he'll have to go some to top Edwards, who was second in the nation in passes caught in 1947.

57 Georgia Bulldogs Start Grid Practice

ATHENS, Sept. 1.—Fifty-seven varsity candidates greeted Coach Wallace Butts when he sounded the opening call today for Georgia's 1948 football season and his tenth year as head mentor.

After a light morning drill of calisthenics and fundamentals the Bulldogs came back in the afternoon wearing full uniform and raced through a workout that lasted well over two hours.

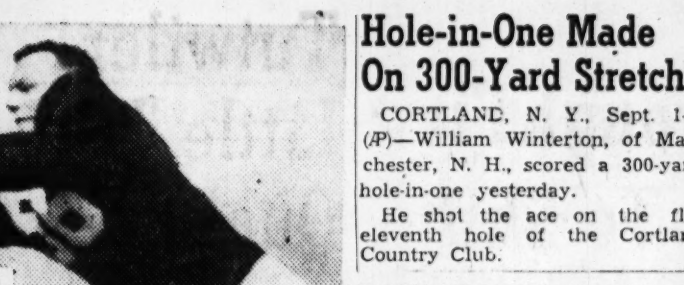

Butts was in pretty good spirits when he talked of the squad's physical condition. "Some of the boys have a little weight to lose," he said. The two-day sessions, which will last for about 10 days, should take care of that.

The Bulldogs launch a 10-game campaign Sept. 25 against the University of Chattanooga.

End reserves, one of the pre-season problems, may have received a boost today with the appearance of J. B. (Ace) Adams, six-foot, 185-pound flankman from Athens, Tenn. The neighboring State immigrant graduated from Tennessee Wesleyan college in June. He has the reputation of being a rough flankman and a fine pass receiver. He was voted the outstanding athlete at the Tennessee junior college.

The new end spent three years in the Navy. He was captain of a blue-jacket eleven at Honolulu. His lack of experience in faster play will probably hold him back for a while but with the reserve situation at the terminals in need of assistance, the 24-year-old father of two could be the man who might erase some worries.

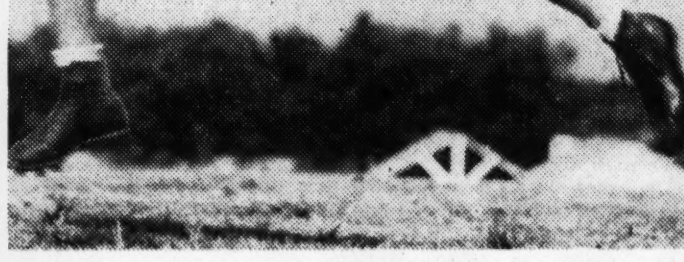

Short Signals—Al McCue, Fred Allman and Richard Lee, former Georgia players, are assisting Coach Quinton Lumpkin with the freshman squad that numbers more than 60. . . . Pete Tarpley, boxing mentor, is the new freshman trainer, having replaced Sam Rine and Claude Bond, Jr., who moved over to the varsity's repair shop. . . . Frankie Sinkwich and Andy Dudish, Rose Bowl stars for Georgia, watched today's opening

Hole-in-One Made On 300-Yard Stretch

CORTLAND, N. Y., Sept. 1.—(AP)—William Winterton, of Manchester, N. H., scored a 300-yard hole-in-one yesterday.

He shot the ace on the flat eleventh hole of the Cortland Country Club.

Tech Swim Ace Hurt in Crash

Johnny Hiles, Georgia Tech swimming star, suffered a dislocated hip yesterday when his automobile failed to make a curve in the residential section.

Hiles, a dual winner in the Southeastern Conference swimming meet last March in the 220-yard and 440-yard free style events, said he swung wide to avoid another car after which his own car left the road.

Three leagues will be formed for boys 110 pounds and under, 130 pounds and under and 150 pounds and under.

THOMASVILLE ACE HURLS NO-HITTER

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Sept. 1.—(AP)—Pitcher Bob Cruze, of Thomasville, in the Class D Georgia-Florida League, entered the circuit's hall of fame tonight when he twirled a no-hitter against Tallahassee, Florida.

The Indians won the seven-inning first game of a double-header, 4-0.

Cruze, who has won 10 and lost 10 this season, has 205 strikeouts in 153 innings. He has pitched two three-hit games, three six-hitters and two seven-hitters this season in addition to losing one game during which he allowed only three safeties.

Brooks Win As Braves Split Pair

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

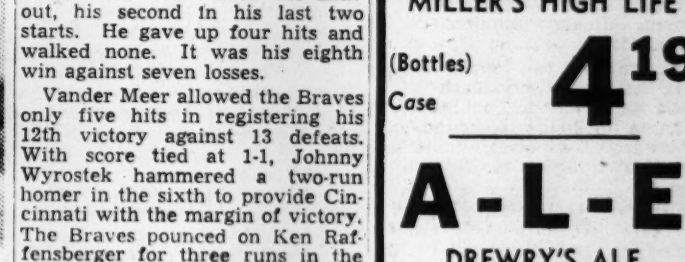

The Brooklyn Dodgers opened up a half game lead over Boston's Braves in the National League pennant race yesterday when they defeated the Chicago Cubs, 6-0, while the Braves were held to a split in their doubleheader with the Reds in Cincinnati. After Johnny Vander Meer had out-pitched Boston's Warren Spahn, 3-1, in the opener, the Braves roared back to capture the nightcap, 11-1.

Preacher Roe hurled the shut-out, his second in his last two starts. He gave up four hits and walked none. It was his eighth win against seven losses.

Vander Meer allowed the Braves only five hits in registering his 12th victory against 13 defeats. Wyrostek hammered a two-run homer in the sixth to provide Cincinnati with the margin of victory. The Braves pounced on Ken Raffensberger for three runs in the first inning of the afterpiece and continued to hammer out 21 hits to get an even break.

Southpaw Monty Kennedy put a temporary chill on Pittsburgh pennant hopes in a night game with a five-hit performance as the New York Giants defeated the Pirates, 5 to 1, to end a seven-game losing streak. The Giants got all three runs off veteran Ernie Bonham in the fifth.

Robin Roberts' wildness and Ron Northey's home run combined to give the St. Louis Cardinals a 2 to 2 triumph over the Philadelphia Phillies in a night game. Andy Seminick and Bama Rowell hit circuit blows for the Phils' two tallies.

140 Jackets Romp Through First Practice; Dold, Doyal To Shift

By GEORGE TISINGER

One hundred and forty well-honed Yellow Jackets romped through their first football practice of the season yesterday afternoon at Grant Field and what their coaches saw pleased them. The Jackets were ready for duty and in tip-top shape, it appeared. In fact, several of the usually hefty brethren were actually a mite underweight.

While most of the afternoon was taken up by news photographers snapping their annual pictures, the athletes ran through limbering up games and spent their time testing out their pitching arms and legs. The only man who'll have to take it easy for awhile is Fullback Buster Humphreys, who is still suffering from the effects of a broken left arm, acquired during Spring drills.

Buster had two bones broken near the elbow and Coach Bobby Dodd said that for at least two or three weeks the 185-pound sophomore from Tennessee will be held out of all rough contact work.

Dodd also confirmed rumors which have been around for several weeks that Buck Doyal, center, would be shifted to guard this year. Doyal played guard his first season at the Flats, but since then has been appearing in the company of Ray Smith, Lewis Hook, Bob Bossons and others at the center spot.

The basketball ace, Melvin Dold,

Two Tech freshmen football players, Fullback Bernard Vise and Tackle George Dentler, who played together at San Jacinto High School in Houston, Texas, were saddened yesterday during their first day of practice at the Flats as they received the news that their high school coach died yesterday in Texas.

who is a sophomore this season and who was to have been in backfield line is expected to be changed to center where he will be used in a defensive role.

Dold is six feet, two inches tall and weighs in at 185 pounds and his unerring eye and gluey hands are expected to be put to use mainly in pass defense. His basketball experience is expected to stand him in good stead here, also.

Coach Dodd was jesting with a few sidewalk alumni when he said it, but the man had his eye on the kicking of a couple of uniforms at the same time. Dodd is scouring the attic in his hunt for a kicker of dependable qualities and Buster Humphreys and a newcomer from Augusta, Matthew Mulherin, were getting some work that looked good for the first day of practice.

The coach said that two sessions would be held today with the players decked out in game uniforms for benefit of the photographer and curious alumni, but that the real work would get under way in earnest Friday when drill sessions will be shifted to Rose Bowl Field.

Contact work with thin line scrimmages are tentatively scheduled for the latter part of next week.

Varsity coaches know pretty well what they have with their returning veterans and their major task is tuning them up and getting them in shape for the Sept. 25 opener with Vanderbilt in Nashville.

But the men who were most happy were those who have to do with the freshmen. Some of them were on hand clad in their bright green shirts and a couple of officials were heard to remark that it was the best looking crop of first year men they had seen at the Flats in some time. Of course, that didn't hurt the varsity coaches' ears any when they heard it either.

60 at Vandy

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 1.—Sixty candidates were on hand as Vanderbilt Football Coach Red Sanders today started grooming his squad for its opening game with Georgia Tech.

Three passers who did most of the flinging for Vandy last year were back in action today. They were Tailbacks Bobby Berry and Jamie Wade, of Nashville, and Dean Davidson, of Miami Beach, Florida.

Among candidates taking part in today's drill were 3 lettermen from last year's squad, one from the 1946 outfit and three from 1945.

Center John Hoover, of Jackson, Tenn., who was handicapped all last season by a leg fracture received in a 1946 game, was out for practice. Hoover said his leg was ready for heavy duty.

Ansley Junior Tourney Gains Semifinal Round

The Junior golf tournament at the Ansley Golf Club reached the semifinals yesterday. Dexter Allen beat George Jones, 7-6; Paul Dorn, Jr., beat Robert Callahan, 4-3; Pete Mayfield beat Billy Rooker, 2-1, and Frank Brumby beat John Woodall, 5-4. Allen plays Dorn and Mayfield meets Brumby in today's semifinals. Jones plays Callahan and Rooker meets Woodall in the consolation.

Tutwiler, Little Top Qualifying

By F. M. WILLIAMS

Bob Tutwiler, representing the Ansley Park Golf Club and Rosser Little, former Southern Intercollegiate champion, paced the scoring in the first day of qualifying for the twelfth annual Capital City Invitational tournament yesterday, each posting even-par 71.

Qualifying continues until 1 o'clock Friday and then match play begins. The tournament continues through Labor Day.

R. B. Godfrey, tournament chairman, estimated more than 200 golfers will enter, but only the low 160 qualifiers will participate in match play. There will be five divisions of 32 each.

Tutwiler, after posting a seven on the fourth hole and finishing the first nine in 39, literally took the back nine to pieces as he scored five birdies, one bogey and three pars for a three-under 32.

Charley Black, the defending champion, and Bobby Jones III were the next lowest scores, both with two-over-par 73s. Young Jones had a fine 35 on the front side, but ran into trouble on the back nine and stumbled to three over regulation figures.

There were 60 players qualifying yesterday.

GRID GLANCES

Don't Overlook Tech's Joe Brown

By GEORGE TISINGER

It's time somebody said something about Georgia Tech Quarterback Joe E. Brown. Most everybody is sort of overlooking the "Golden Arm" (present company included) when they go into trances trying to report Tech football facts.

One fact remains, however. Joe E. had the best percentage, figuring passes thrown and passes completed, last season of any of the returning Yellow Jacket pitchers.

The Brown boy threw 19 passes and completed 13 for a percentage of .682. His nearest percentage competitor was Halfback Red Patton, whose figures were .667 with six thrown and four completed.

Bubba Sykes, the red-shirted quarterback of last year who got into some of the games, had an even .600 percentage with 10 tosses and six completions. Quarterback Jimmy Southard hurled 28, connected with 16 and had a percentage of .578.

However—and this is why others are still looking for another dependable heavier—Brown was used mostly as a defensive quarterback against the big boys on the 1947 schedule and the two offensive men, Southard and Jim Still, did most of the work when the Techs had the ball.

Joe E. accumulated a lot of his throwing time against Furman, The Citadel and VMI. The same holds true for Sykes.

Brown suffered no interceptions, while Southard, Sykes and Patton had one each. And Brown totaled 164 yards gained with his 16 good shots.

Top Ground Gainers

That the Jackets had a knack last year for getting there, nobody can deny. And those same men are for the most part back this year. They led the Southeastern Conference in total yards gained. Their mark of 3,355 yards gained, an average of 335 yards per game, was good enough to be twelfth in the nation.

At the same time they were first in the SEC in rushing defense, allowing their enemies but an average of 74 yards per game. This was the third best mark in this department in the U. S.

That brings up some more good talk about a returnee. Co-Captain and End George Brodnax tied for fourth in the country in receiving passes. He caught 31, gained 400 yards on them and scored five touchdowns as a result of them.

Choice Opener

Up in Nashville some people have their eyes on Tech, too. Red Sanders called his Vanderbilt Commodores out Wednesday and some 60 men were there. Thirty-two won letters last year.

They're talking a lot about the stars of '47 who will NOT be there this year, but somebody by the name of Frank Thomas

The committee approved a wine application for 117 Hunter St. and a beer and wine license for 312 Boulevard, S. E. Seven other applications for permits were denied.

A delegation urging the city to continue maintaining scales as a paid service for use of shippers was advised to take the matter up with Mayor Hartsfield, who was absent at the committee meeting.

BEES AND BAG—Mrs. Clinton Bertsch has the bee situation in her home in Cambridge City, Ind., "in the bag." Bothered for two summers by a swarm of bees, Mrs. Bertsch finally decided to place the nozzle of her vacuum cleaner over the hole where they enter. Now the bees are in the bag. . . . Virgil Villalobos braved a Washington crowd at the City Post Office's "dead" parcel auction for a chance to bid on lot No. 126, what he thought was an electric toaster. He paid $26 for lot No. 126, 25 nightgowns. . . . Seventeen persons were convicted Aug. 28 in Miami for loitering in a gambling house that was raided. They were fined $5 each and court costs by Associate City Judge Albert S. Dubbin, but when City Judge Cecil C. Curry returned from his vacation he granted 17 new trials. Judge Curry had found that the police failed to knock before entering the gambling establishment. . . . Bob Davis, freckle-faced and 14, almost won the Iowa State Fair's 1948 jelly-making championship with eight tempting entries he made in his mother's kitchen. Officials said the lad's jelly would have won two first prizes but a "Women Only" rule barred him. . . . Jeanette Keller, 6, of Adrian, Mich., said she was in a dreamland of cops and robbers when she was rudely roused by a fall from a second-story window. She was treated for head injuries and a broken ankle. . . . Kneadlicky and zell did in Chicago what the great fire didn't—it saved a home. Kneadlicky and zell is a Bohemian dish of dumplings, sauerkraut and meat, and while Emily and Anton Vleck disagreed on many things, they both adore kneadlicky and zell. In court over a divorce suit her attorney, Victor Breinhilch, remarked, "Today is the opening of the k . . . and z . . . season. And Vleck hasn't tasted any like his wife makes since last year. He really likes it." They headed home for a dinner of k . . . and z . . .

A great many hands present the spectacle of a race right down to the wire between declarer and the defenders, with the issue sometimes in doubt as late as trick 12. In others the contest is over as soon as the opening lead is made. It is difficult to overemphasize the importance of the opening lead, and times and times have been written on that technique alone. It has been estimated that more than 50 percent of successful game and slam contracts could be defeated if the best double-dummy opening were selected, so it is apparent that the element of luck enters into the picture in no slight degree.

A QUARTER CENTURY OF PROVED COMPETENCE IN PUBLIC SERVICE

J. ALLEN COUCH

Twenty-five years' experience in public affairs, a real range of honest and capable service, stands behind J. Allen Couch's candidacy for the Fulton County Commission.

No man can stand the pitiless, searching glare of a quarter of a century in the spotlight of public service, subject to the constant criticism of political enemies, unless he has a full measure of the ability and integrity we should expect from our public servants.

J. Allen Couch has served a total of twenty-five years on the City Council of Atlanta, gaining valuable experience on every committee of council during that time. He has served as mayor pro-tem and his outstanding service to the cause of public education has been recognized by the naming of the J. Allen Couch Grammar School in his honor.

His platform is simple: major emphasis on schools, health and recreation programs for all sections of the county. For Fulton's great rural population, Couch will work for all-weather roads and adequate bridges. He will work to do away with the monthly collection of the garbage tax, merging it with other taxes on an annual basis.

$128,000 Paid Rail Workers

Payments totaling $128,000 were made to railroad workers in Atlanta under the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act during its first year, John E. Benseny, District Manager of the Railroad Retirement Board, Federal administrators of the program, said yesterday.

Most of the beneficiaries in the year ended June 30, Benseny said, were in the older age brackets, a majority being over 45. These workers generally had long railroad service records and their wages were high enough to permit them to receive top benefit rates of $4.50 and $5 a day.

In order to qualify for sickness benefits, Benseny said, employees must have earned at least $150 in railroad employment during 1947. An application, together with a doctor's statement, must be submitted within 10 days.

Fortune Poll Favors Dewey

President Truman "faces an uphill fight for election, with 64 percent of the people now predicting a Dewey victory," according to a Fortune magazine survey.

Elmo Roper, in a study of leading campaign issues for Fortune reported majority of voters agree with President Truman on price control and public housing but oppose him on taxes and labor law revision.

At this time, four years ago, the survey showed, only six percent of voters "had not made up their minds." Today, nearly three times that many (16.6 percent) have made no political choice. To be elected, Fortune pointed out, Truman would have to capture not only the undecided vote but win over the "independents" now in Dewey's camp.

Rival Chiang Rule

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—(AP) The Chinese Communists today proclaimed a "North China People's Government" as a rival to Pres. Chiang Kai-Shek's regime. A broadcast from the Communist radio in North China—heard here by The Associated Press—said the aim of the "Government" is "the striking down of American imperialism and Kuomintang (Government Party) rule in China."

Sometimes, however, the application of neat reasoning may result in an opening lead that snatches the hand from the very jaws of death. The story of a big one that got away during the Master's individual championship is told today.

The bidding was normal in most respects. North's four no trump bid is not conventional, but an invitation to partner to proceed if he has undisclosed values. If South has a minimum holding he is at perfect liberty to pass the four no trump bid and the hand will play there with a reasonable degree of safety. South, of course, having considerably more than his previous bidding had indicated, and never himself having increased the contract, accepted the invitation with alacrity. His decision to bid the slam in no trump instead of in clubs, which was foolproof, was made in consideration of the fact that the scoring was at match points, which means that each hand is a separate contest and may be won or lost by as little as 10 points. Abnormal bids are frequently made in an effort to garner the odd point or two.

Some Wests, unwilling to adopt an aggressive attitude, elected to exit with club or a spade and permit declarer to work out his own destiny. With the concession of the ace of diamonds declarer had 12 tricks. One West player decided it would be important to build up a heart trick before his ace of diamonds was dislodged and, hoping to find partner with the queen of hearts, led the seven of that suit. Declarer had no choice but to let it ride to his queen and had no difficulty in fulfilling contract.

It will be seen that the opening of the king of hearts will defeat the contract and in the post-mortem analysis it was agreed by most of the experts that if a heart is selected for the opening lead, the best bet is to lead the king. If the queen is adversely held it matters not whether opener takes off with the seven or the king, unless it so happens that declarer has a singleton queen, which is not inconceivable. Remember you are trying to beat the contract only one trick and if partner has the queen of hearts, declarer is doomed regardless of which heart you lead. Since the king lead wins against one additional combination, it is the superior play.
